

Housing Still Relocation Problem

Editor's Note: The Daily Freeman reviewed the relocation program of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency in the first of this two-part series. The series came about as a result of revelations published in The Freeman that the Ulster County Social Services Department had, due to what it said was lack of available housing in Kingston, quartered its clients in area hotels and motels at the rate of some $400 a week.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
Douglas V. Dye, chairman of the Social Services Committee of the Ulster County Legislature, and Harold Larsen, director of Social Services, blamed the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency for the current lack of housing in the city for the department's clients.
Dye and Larsen scored the city's housing policies for producing a situation where multi-bedroom apartments needed by the Social Services Department to house large families are virtually nonexistent. As a result, Dye and Larsen contended, the Social Services Department has been forced to quarter large families at local hotels and motels "on an emergency basis" at what both agree are "exorbitant" prices.

There is no question that housing facilities for large families are scarce in the city. Ralph Marelo, relocation director for the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, interviewed in the first installment of this series, told The Freeman that his 1963 survey of housing in Kingston showed 79 apartments with three bedrooms, 29 apartments with four bedrooms and nine apartments, or homes, with five bedrooms. Marelo's figures for 1971 show only 42 three-bedroom apartments, 15 four-bedroom apartments and two five-bedroom apartments.

That is only part of a complex picture. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, in Broadway East alone, demolished 600 housing units. Only 131 were replaced, with the construction of Rondout Gardens. Of its larger apartments, Rondout Gardens has only 24 three-bedroom apartments, 11 four-bedroom apartments and five, five-bedroom apartments.
Marelo's staff, in planning relocation in 1963 figured on Rondout Gardens as a relocation facility. What the staff couldn't figure was the forces of the marketplace which affected housing in Kingston.

Special

Basically what happened and is still happening is that landlords and homeowners found it more profitable to convert large homes and apartments into smaller units. The "zero-bedroom, efficiency apartment" became more common as the years went by. And legally, it was easy enough for landlords and homeowners. All that was needed was approval of the city's zoning Board of Appeals. Variances were granted in almost every case. Most typical is the two-family, two-story house with four or five rooms on each floor. It can easily be converted into four apartments bringing in twice the rent.

The trend toward smaller apartments on one hand and larger (welfare) families who need housing has been underway for some time. The crunch was felt two weeks ago with the revelation that the Social Services Department was housing a 10-member family in the Gov. Clinton at a weekly rent of $280.

Some solutions to that problem have been forthcoming, but not many. Marelo admits that his is short term and is not original. Broadway West, across the street from the Urban Renewal project, contains a number of large buildings, all rundown, most vacant. Marelo recalls that several years ago it was suggested that those buildings be rehabilitated into large apartments for large families.
The rehabilitation would have to be done by owners of the buildings, since under present law, the Social Services Department cannot engage in such activities. It can only pay rent.

The plan to rehabilitate Broadway West has been thwarted, to date, by the assumption that that area would be taken by urban renewal in the near future. An owner might risk having his newly-rehabilitated building torn down. George E. Radcliffe, city building inspector and a proponent of the Broadway West rehab plan, allows that urban renewal might come to that area "six months from now or six years."

Three-Pronged Advance by Indian Troops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indian troops were reported within six miles of the East Pakistani capital of Dacca Sunday night and advancing from three directions.

Senior Pakistani officers in Dacca predicted the assault on the city would begin by Tuesday they said their defenses were disorganized and crumbling. But Pakistan's military chief in the East, Lt. Gen. A. K. Niazi, was said to be determined not to surrender.

A battalion of Indian paratroopers was dropped somewhere north of Dacca on Saturday night. An Indian military spokesman said they advanced on the city Sunday night after beating off a counterattack during which they killed 23 Pakistani soldiers and took 12 prisoners.

The spokesman was unable to say whether the paratroopers had linked up with another Indian column advancing from the Meghna River to the north-east. These troops were reported to have taken Narsingdi, 25 miles from the capital, and to be "now advancing fast towards Dacca."

The main drive on Dacca is from the southeast, and some reports placed it near Daudkandi, 20 miles away.

East Pakistani guerrillas in Dacca and its suburbs were said to be awaiting the signal for a general uprising, but so far no fighting was reported in the city itself.

All 16 Pakistani F86 Sabre jets in the East have been destroyed, and there is little artillery and less than a brigade of 30,000 to defend the city.

Elsewhere in East Pakistan, heavy fighting was reported around the army base at the southern river port of Khulna, about 125 miles southwest of Dacca; in the northern Dinajpur sector, and in the Hilli area in the northwest.

Indian military spokesmen reported hundreds of Pakistanis were surrendering in the Comilla sector, about 50 miles east of Dacca, but Pakistan denied this.

A map in India's Eastern military headquarters in Calcutta indicated about two-thirds of East Pakistan is in Indian hands.

As the Indians drew close to Dacca, three British planes on Sunday evacuated more than 400 foreigners from the city in a tense four-hour airlift. They were flown to Calcutta, and among them were about 125 Americans.

Some of the refugees arriving in Calcutta said some foreigners who wanted to leave were left behind for lack of space. They reported that one man clung to the door of the last plane and fell to the ground as the plane taxied slowly along the runway.

UN adjournment foils U. S. truce movement. Story on Page 3.

Newsmen said among those who stayed in the city were 17 American officials, a few U.N. and Red Cross workers and missionaries and about 50 newsmen, a third of them American.

Indian planes resumed bombing the airport 15 minutes after a six-hour cease-fire for the evacuation.

Indian authorities said unruly crowds in the Pakistani capital of Islamabad, in West Pakistan, cut short an evacuation of foreigners during a 3½-hour cease-fire there. The foreign ministry in New Delhi said seven planes managed to leave with an undisclosed number of foreigners, but seven others were stranded at the airport and one was forced to turn back without landing because of the mob.

No major fighting was reported along the border between India and West Pakistan, but the Indians claimed capturing some Pakistani outposts in the Rajasthan desert and in Kashmir near Kargil. The mountain-top outposts near Kargil overlook India's road link between the Kashmiri capital of Srinagar and Leh, in the northern part of the state.

A Pakistani military spokesman said Pakistani planes bombed Indian air bases and army concentrations in the Punjab, Kashmir and Rajasthan areas Saturday night but gave no assessment of damage.

Newsmen have been barred from most of the war fronts and have been unable to verify or disprove the conflicting claims. But correspondents who made unauthorized trips toward the Western front last week did not find signs of the heavy fighting claimed by the Pakistanis.

A U.N. observer near the border in Kashmir said the front was "the quietest I have ever seen." He also said he'd received the same report from a colleague further up the line at Punch, where the Pakistanis have claimed a major offensive is under way.

In New York, the U.N. Security Council met Sunday night to consider an urgent proposal by the United States for a cease-fire appeal but recessed until today without taking any action. The Soviet Union threatened to veto the U.S. resolution if the United States insisted on a vote Sunday.

India said there could be a cease-fire and withdrawal of Indian forces only if Pakistan withdrew its forces from the East and reached a political settlement with the Bengali rebels. Pakistan has accepted the cease-fire appeal made by the General Assembly last Tuesday night, but India rejected it.

President Nixon issued a statement accusing India of defying world opinion by rejecting the General Assembly cease-fire appeal.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said efforts are being made to invoke Western military pacts against India. Addressing a mass rally in New Delhi, she indicated she was referring to the Central Treaty Organization, the Southeast Treaty Organization or both. The United States and Pakistan are members of both alliances.

Mrs. Gandhi accused "rich allies" of encouraging Pakistan to go to war and declared that India was fighting in East Pakistan to uphold freedom in the world.

Nixon, Pompidou Discuss The Situation in Pakistan

ANGRA DO HEROISMO. Azores (UPI)—In an 18th century building that once housed Portuguese kings, President Nixon gave French President Georges Pompidou today an outline of what he hopes to achieve in visits early next year to Peking and Moscow. Discussion also centered on the Indian-Pakistani war.

That ostensibly was the main purpose of this conference in the Atlantic between the two leaders—one of a series Nixon is having with Allied leaders over a period of a month.

Nixon and Pompidou put off until later meetings in the afternoon, tonight, and on Tuesday, a discussion of the thornier problems created by new U.S. economic policies announced by Nixon Aug. 15.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the initial meeting included Nixon's report on his forthcoming trips but no details were given.

While Nixon and Pompidou conferred for 2 hours, 35 minutes in their first session, with only interpreters with them, their principal financial and foreign policy advisors met separately in the world money crisis.

Ziegler said Nixon and Pompidou postponed their own discussions of monetary problems until later in the day.

The Nixon-Pompidou meetings—including a late afternoon session, followed by a dinner tonight and a final, two-hour meeting Tuesday morning—took place in the old General Assembly building in the center of Angra, capital of the Portuguese Azores. Portuguese rulers often used it in days gone by when they visited the islands. It is called the Junta Geral.

Tough bargaining was anticipated over the international money crisis in particular.

In addition, French officials said Pompidou wanted to discuss the differing views between Washington and Paris over the possibility of an all-Europe security conference and the possibility of mutual East-West troop reductions.

Pompidou arrived at the Junta Geral about one minute ahead of Nixon. The Portuguese government coordinated the two motorcades to assure nearly simultaneous arrival.

Nixon, standing up in his bubble-top limousine, waved at several thousand townspeople who lined his motorcade route through the twisting cobblestone streets.

The onlookers waved U.S., French and Portuguese flags.

Pompidou, dressed in a black suit, and Nixon in his familiar slate grey, shook hands in the courtyard of the Junta Geral as photographers shouted in three languages.

"Congratulations on the Concorde," Nixon told Pompidou in reference to the British-French supersonic jetliner Pompidou used for his trip to this picturesque island in the Atlantic.

Reduces Sentence of Another

Red China Frees Two Americans

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China today freed two Americans, a man held captive for 19 years and a woman captured on a yacht in 1968. The pair crossed into Hong Kong and left on a flight for the United States.

The Peking government announced it had reduced the life sentence of another American and that a fourth American prisoner committed suicide more than two years ago.

Richard Fecteau, 43, a civilian Army employee from Lynn, Mass., captured during the Korean war, and Mary Ann Harbert crossed the border in the early afternoon. A Royal Air Force helicopter flew them to Kai Tak airport, and there they boarded a U.S. military plane for the United States, a spokesman for the Hong Kong government said.

It was not known where the plane was taking them.

Peking announced that the life sentence being served by John T. Downey, 41, of New Britain, Conn., had been commuted to five years starting from the date of commutation. That date was not announced, but presumably it was listed. The fourth American released by Peking today was Gerald Ross McLaughlin. The New China News Agency said he was captured with Miss Harbert aboard a yacht in Chinese territorial waters north of Hong Kong on April 21, 1968. The Communist agency said he committed suicide on March 7, 1969, while under investigation. Peking's announcement was the first word of the capture of Miss Harbert and McLaughlin, and no information about them was available in Hong Kong. Informal sources said American authorities here had not known they were in China.

Two other Americans are known to be still imprisoned in China: Air Force Capt. Phillip E. Smith, whose plane was shot down over the Gulf of Tonkin in September 1965, and Lt. Robert J. Flynn, a U.S. Navy pilot presumed shot down over China's Kwangsi Province in August 1967.

Navy Lt. Joseph Dunn, whose plane was shot down off China's Hainan Island in February 1968, is listed as missing on the Chinese mainland.

The government spokesman said Fecteau looked healthy and wore a blue Chinese suit with blue cap. Miss Harbert, in Western-style clothes, appeared healthy but rather thin, the spokesman said.

Fecteau and Downey were captured in 1952 during the Korean war when a military plane on which they were passengers was shot down on a flight from Japan to Korea.

The Chinese charged that Fecteau and Downey, who were listed as Army civilian employees, were on a mission for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency dropping Nationalist Chinese spies. The United States denied the charge repeatedly.

Fecteau served 19 years of a 20-year sentence. He and Downey were visited last month by Downey's mother, Mrs. Mary Downey, 74, who told newsmen afterward that her son looked "well and in good spirits." Mrs. Downey predicted commutation of her son's sentence and said Fecteau was due for release soon.

Debrosky: Move Gaining Support

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON day from both Debrosky and Kirschner who said, "It is pretty bad when one person has so much power that he could be quoted saying such a thing." Debrosky added that the state budget is reportedly picking up some strength. He said today that he has ded through. Criticized by Savago for belatedly and "a meeting looks ing a Johnny-Come-Lately with possible if just a few more get, Debrosky countered saying that it was his questions at an executive session five days after the budget was revealed that extended that meeting into a two-hour session. "That was the only time the legislature ever met on the budget other than at the public hearing," he explained, adding that "the entire legislature never met again on the budget, that the GOP legislators never caucused on the upcoming vote and that a five-minute GOP caucus was held the night of the vote in spite of the fact that last minute changes in the budget were not available until the night of the budget vote.

That statement drew fire to Kirschner, in making his 2), who, as a member of the also recalled that it was Finance Committee "did not Savago's resolution last July sign" the committee budget, watch formerly placed a freeze on the creation of new jobs." He also lashed out at Savago, Concluding Debrosky said he is glad there was a $2 million surplus from 1971 but does not think it should be put in the 1972 budget. "I am against Savago's should be put in the collecting taxes if the money know as chairman of the Finance Committee. Debrosky is not going to be spent."

City Man Faces Second Bogus Bill Charge

By WALTER S. CLARK

POUGHKEEPSIE

Three men including a resident of Kingston have been accused of possessing counterfeit money and conspiracy as the result of a two-month investigation by U. S. Treasury agents and the city's Narcotics Bureau. The arrests made four that have been made of area residents on charges involving counterfeit bills. A 36-year-old Kingston man is in the Chenango County jail awaiting grand jury action on charges of possessing 83 counterfeit $10 bills. Arrested in this city were Charles McGill, 21, of 509 Main Street and Wilson Van Leuvan, 46, who gave his address as 33 Vernon Terrace. The third man charged in Poughkeepsie was identified as John Bohan, 25, who police said resides in Kingston, but has no permanent address. Presently Bohan is in the Dutchess County jail, where he is held in connection with prior burglary and counterfeiting charges filed some time ago by Town of Poughkeepsie police. According to city police, federal agents followed a New York City man, whose name was not disclosed, to the Poughkeepsie area in October and on his way back to New York City, he was arrested for possession of $2,000 in counterfeit money, the denominations of which were not released. Following his arrest, Van Leuvan was arraigned before a federal judge in New York City. He was released on bail. McGill was arraigned by U. S. Commissioner John B. Garrity here and held in $20,000 bail. Meanwhile, upstate authorities continued investigation of Peter

G. Suski, 38, of 74 Cedar Street, Kingston, who was arrested upstate Thursday by State Police who said the man had in his possession 83 phony $10 bills. Suski was held for grand jury action in Chenango County in lieu of bail.

Authorities said an alarm was out for a man answering Suski's description after counterfeit money turned up in several stores in the Binghamton area.

State Police said the bills reportedly found in Suski's possession had serial numbers of B5122892H and B51229239H. The bills had a face plate number of B46 and were of the 1963A series.

According to official sources, Suski allegedly passed bogus bills at Howard Johnson's Restaurant, the Grandway, Grant's, a drug store, Hess' Gas Station, McDonald's and a diner on State Street, Binghamton. Troopers said other phony $10s turned up in the Wurtsboro and Liberty area bearing the same serial numbers as those confiscated upstate.

Several Injured in Traffic Mishaps

KINGSTON

Several persons were injured in traffic accidents that occurred in this area over the weekend, according to police reports. Four were hurt in mishaps in this city.

Shortly before 12:30 a.m. Sunday cars driven by Edwin Basch, 20, of 113 Hone Street, and Cleaster Knox 26, of 26 Post Street, this city, collided on the West Pierpont at Ravine Street, Basch was treated at Kingston Hospital for injuries to the lips and cheek. A passenger, Deborah Hulsair, 19, of 76 Holiday Lane, was treated for injuries to the right knee and forehead. She was taken to the hospital for x-ray examination, police said.

At 2:05 a.m. Sunday cars operated by Charles Forester Jr., 20, of RFD 2, Box 295, Kingston, and James W. Cave, Jr., 52, of RD 3, Box 249 Kingston, were involved in a mishap on Broadway south of Cornell Street, according to police reports.

Forster was stopped for a red traffic light on Broadway when his car reportedly was hit in the rear by the other vehicle. Cave was cited for failure to produce a registration and following too close. The charges are pending in City Court.

Another traffic accident that resulted in personal injuries and a citation, occurred at 9:45 a.m. Sunday on Leggs Mills Road in the Town of Cairo, according to Leeds State Police. The vehicles were driven by Charles Franconiglia, 51, of Purling, and Roberta Lorenz, 29, of Freehold. The man, who was cited by Trooper A. G. Parker for failure to yield the right of way, pulled onto the main highway and the crash occurred.

Adjournment Foils U.S. Attempt to End War

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — India said Sunday it was prepared to consider a cease-fire in the Indo-Pakistan war if the East Pakistani rebels first were given a hearing. The Security Council debated the conflict for 5½ hours, then adjourned early today without voting on a U.S. truce resolution.

The adjournment foiled a move by the United States to get a quick vote on its proposal to end the war.

Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik, who vetoed two cease-fire resolutions in the 15-nation Council Dec. 5, objected to a quick vote on the U.S. resolution, introduced by Ambassador George Bush under instructions from President Nixon.

The council scheduled a session later today to continue debate on the issue.

Malik insisted on a need for time to get instructions from Moscow and said Bush wanted an immediate vote in order to force another veto.

Bush retorted that the United States was not concerned with "embarrassing" any country and only wanted the Council to end the bloodshed on the Asian subcontinent where an all-out, undeclared war has been underway since Dec. 3.

Bush told the emergency session of the Council, the second such meeting in a week, that if the U.S. cease-fire and mutual troop withdrawal proposal failed he was willing to sit all night until the 15 diplomats could find an alternative.

Pakistan accepted the General Assembly vote 104-11 to end the conflict. But the issue was returned to the council because it has enforcement powers and the Assembly only can recommend.

India said in a letter delivered Sunday from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to Secretary General Thant that it was ready to consider a truce so long as the rebel government of East Pakistan had a hearing before the Council first.

"The government of India is prepared to consider the call for a cease-fire," the letter said.

It said Pakistan "has irrevocably lost the allegiance" of East Pakistan and added that India had decided to recognize the breakaway state of Bangla Desh, as the rebels call East Pakistan, because the "overwhelming majority" of East Pakistan's elected representatives have declared themselves in favor of independence.

"In these circumstances, is it realistic to call upon India to cease fire without, at the same time, giving a hearing to the representatives of Bangla Desh whose armed forces are engaged against the forces of West Pakistan?" Mrs. Gandhi's letter said.

David Sarnoff Dies, Former RCA Chairman

NEW YORK (UPI) — David Sarnoff, who rose from a Russian immigrant paperboy to one of the giants of the communications industry, died Sunday of complications from an ear infection. He was 80.

Sarnoff's communications career was launched April 14, 1912, when he was the first American to hear word of the sinking of the Titanic. He went on to pioneer both radio and television and rose to chairman of RCA Corp.

He retired from RCA in 1970 but retained the title of honorary chairman until his death. He had suffered from the ear infection for several years and underwent a series of operations to try to correct it.

The body will repose at the Frank E. Campbell Funeral Home today and Tuesday. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, in Temple Emanuel.

Gen. Sarnoff had the qualities of spirit that embody the highest tradition of our nation — imagination, daring, patriotism and generosity," President Nixon said Sunday. "Mrs. Sarnoff and I join his family and the nation at large in mourning the passing of this gifted American. Neither an investor nor an originator of the electronic means which brought the radio-telephony boom, Sarnoff was a man who saw clearly the potential of these new inventions and gambled on their success even in the darkest of times.

Born Feb. 27, 1891 in the small Russian village of Uzlian, near Minsk, Sarnoff came to the United States in 1900 with his parents. After his father's death, he sold newspapers on the streets of New York and later went to work as a copy boy for Marconi Wireless.

As an operator for Marconi, Sarnoff had the tedious job the night of April 14, 1912, of monitoring broadcasts at an experimental wireless station at the top of Wanamaker's Department Store on Broadway.

It was there that he heard the first faint SOS that would shock the world: "S.S. Titanic ran into iceberg, sinking fast."

For 72 hours, Sarnoff sat by the wireless set relaying to the world the news of the sinking of the "unsinkable" ship and copying down the names of the survivors.

President William Howard Taft ordered all other stations in the country to shut down to minimize interference with the signals coming from the doomed ship.

Sarnoff's actions in those days earned him a succession of rapid advancements at Marconi. In 1916, he sent his famous message saying, "I have in mind a plan of development which would make radio a household utility in the same sense as a piano or phonograph. The idea is to bring music into the home by wireless."

Predicted sales of radios would reach $75 million, but in the first three years of production alone sales reached $83 million. In 1923 he sent his second famous memo, stating, "I believe that television, which is the technical name for seeing as well as hearing by radio, will come to pass in due course."

Another of his hopes, a central broadcasting organization, was realized in 1926 when RCA formed a subsidiary which was to become the National Broadcasting Co.

Although best known for his work in communications, Sarnoff was the major influence in building RCA into a multifaceted corporation that at the time of his death was grossing more than $3 billion annually.

Rent, Health Costs on Agenda At Price Commission Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission is moving toward setting guidelines for residential rent and health costs, which have been in economic limbo since the freeze ended four weeks ago.

A commission spokesman said Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. put the two items on the agenda for the panel's regular weekly meeting today and Tuesday, although still awaiting recommendations from two advisory panels.

"He just doesn't think we can wait any longer," the spokesman said. Announcement of any decision probably would come late Tuesday or Wednesday.

Meanwhile, a Pay Board spokesman said that panel soon will issue long-awaited forms for reporting big wage agreements. Reports are due by the end of the month, but so far the board has failed to decide what paperwork should be involved.

However, the Pay Board was reported far from agreement on clarifying what special circumstances will justify raises higher than 5.5 per cent a year. A proposal placed before the board last week would require advance approval of any agreements that exceed that general limit, no matter how few workers are covered.

Both pay and price panels have caused grumbling because of delays in knotting the many loose ends still flapping from post-freeze wage and price controls. "Somehow we can't seem to settle anything without a big argument," one Pay Board participant complained last week.

Congress, which also has been accused of stalling on economic matters, nearly wrapped up that work last week. It passed tax-cut legislation which President Nixon signed into law, and sent a wage-price control bill to a joint conference committee of the Senate and House to work out a final compromise.

Also last week the Pay Board approved the new railroad signalmen's agreement, scheduled a review of a pattern-setting contract in the aerospace industry and patched up a spat with a subordinate panel that regulates pay in the construction trades.

The Price Commission was relatively dormant, approving a 3.6-per-cent average increase for all U.S. Steel mill products while awaiting word from advisory panels on health costs and rent.

State Okays Fare Raise

ALBANY of 70 cents, depending upon the distance traveled, will range from 30 cents to $1.05 under terms of the new tariff schedules. Present fares have been in effect since 1962.

Lester Lines' new fares were prevented from becoming effective on August 27, as proposed, by the Federal wage-price freeze. They are expected to increase the company's annual revenue by $8,400 and enable it to prevent a projected operating loss. The company operated at a loss of $6,500 for the year ended December 31, 1970.

DOT, which had earlier determined Lester Lines' tariff revisions to be justified and in the public interest, reexamined the proposal and found it consistent with the purposes of Phase II of the Federal economic stabilization effort.

PT-A Meeting To Hear Yule Program

SAUGERTIES The next PTA meeting of the Grant D. Morse School will feature a special program of Christmas music on Wednesday, Dec. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Among the groups performing will be the choir, directed by Kenneth Baumgartner. They will sing "Fum, Fum, Fum," a Catalanian carol; "African Noel," a Liberian carol; and "Twas The Night Before Christmas," as arranged by Simone. Student accompanist will be Andrea Baran.

Both the instrument ensemble and concert band will also participate under the direction of Arthur Biscoglio. The ensemble will present "We Wish You A Merry Christmas," "O Come, O Come, Immanuel," "We Three Kings Of Orient Are" and "A Christmas Melody." The last will be as arranged by Biscoglio himself.

Band selections will include "Silent Night," "Deck The Halls," "Good King Wenceslas," "What Child Is This," "Angels We Have Heard On High," "Triumphant Festival," "Toyland" and "Carol Of The Bells." Also, Baumgartner will render a baritone solo of "A Star Was His Candle" by Del Riego. Mrs. Kenneth Baumgartner will accompany him.

There will be an opportunity for audience involvement during the singing of familiar carols.

A social hour is being planned under the direction of the refreshment committee which is co-chaired by Mrs. Joseph DeFino and Mrs. George Augustine.

The public is invited to attend.

STORY TIME—Susan Naccarato (R), a 6th grade student at Meagher Elementary School, reads a story to Mrs. Kithcart's kindergarten class, in the library. This activity is part of a Library project currently underway with the upper grade students. Students select stories from the library, or prepare their own original story, for presentation to younger children. Creation of special "props" such as handmade puppets, pictures, or scenery has caused the stories to be very enjoyable, as well as an educational experience, for all involved.

Bundle Drive Successful

KINGSTON A total of 23,500 pounds of good usable clothing (11 tons) was collected by the youngsters of the Kingston School Consolidated during the recent annual Bundle Drive, according to William Reardon, assistant superintendent of elementary schools. Pleased with the huge amount collected this year, Reardon and George Washburn, assistant superintendent in charge of secondary schools, said the clothes were shipped for use in the Appalachian region of the country. The drive is sponsored by the Save the Children Federation, Knoxville, Tenn. Both Reardon and Washburn praised the efforts put forth by the youngsters, their teachers and parents.

Dutchess Building Receives New Look

POUGHKEEPSIE A combination of federal aid to education in the greater Poughkeepsie area, field training for architectural design students at Dutchess Community College, and the carpentry skills of BOCES students is providing a fresh appearance to an historic downtown Poughkeepsie building.

Drawing tables and drafting instruments are now on location in the dusty upper rooms of Vassar Institute building as Dutchess' architectural students prepare the 100-year-old structure for occupancy by the downtown education center, a new educational venture administered by the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson Area (ACMHA).

Federal grants of more than $60,000 to ACMHA and a $20,000 Vocational Education Act grant to Dutchess Community College

Study Program Sponsored at Area College

POUGHKEEPSIE A summer study program in Spain is being sponsored by Dutchess Community College's language department for area residents interested in earning six credit hours in Spanish culture and language.

The six-week program, according to Assistant Professor Gervas Blakely, will begin in Gijon (Asturias) during the last week in June.

Students will receive maximum practice and experience with the Spanish language during the daily instructional sessions. Accommodations will be provided by Spanish families in the Gijon area.

Excursions to areas of interest and a three-day visit to Madrid are included in the summer academic program.

Precise costs and departure dates will be confirmed; interested students should contact Assistant Professor Blakely at the college.

Local Woman Completes Training

SAUGERTIES Mrs. Ethel M. Boice, of 63 Madison Avenue, Kingston, has been named the Saugerties Welcome Wagon hostess after completing the required course of training in New Paltz.

Mrs. Boice is now one of 8,000 Welcome Wagon hostesses who make more than a million calls annually on families in more than 4,000 cities throughout the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, and Puerto Rico.

Meeting Change

The annual business meeting of the Ulster Businessmen's Association, originally scheduled to be held at the Kingston Savings Bank's Bonanza Branch, will be held at the Kingston Trust Company, Ulster Office, instead. The meeting is Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. An election of officers for 1972 will be conducted.

have made the project a reality. Second year architectural technologists at Dutchess have established an operational field office within the building at 12 Vassar Street, and 14 students are completing credit work in significant phases of drawing and design.

Under the guidance of Elting Burger, James Flynn, and Aaron Rand—all registered architects and faculty members with DCC—the students have completed accurate measurements of the building and completed drawings of each level.

Working in teams, the students have divided their time between the Vassar Institute building and two adjoining structures which will eventually become the permanent offices of the ACMHA.

Since the establishment of the project in September, one student team has completed drawings of the 270 seat theater, and completed plans for the renovation of the basement level dressing rooms.

As the preparation of specifications has progressed, other students have been introduced to the responsibilities of private contractors and methods of pricing materials.

Carpentry students from the Dutchess County BOCES center and instructor Robert LaRoe have been traveling to the site in the Urban Renewal area to translate working specifications into finished partitions, floors, and ceilings.

Actively involved in the on-going cooperative project among area students and agencies is Edmund Loedy, a local practicing architect who is providing supplementary guidance to the DCC and BOCES students.

The student architectural technologists from Dutchess are unanimous in their regard for the field project in the Urban Renewal Area. Several students remarked that a joining similar endeavor after they receive associate degrees would "be an ideal opportunity."

Sharp construction increases in recent years throughout the Mid-Hudson region have opened a multitude of opportunities for architectural design students. Since the program was established in 1963, the pronounced need for competent architectural and engineering technologists has continued to exceed the number of DCC graduates.

The Dutchess County Landmarks Association, which has been instrumental in the planning phases of acquisition and rehabilitation for several buildings in the Urban Renewal Area, regards the contributions by DCC and BOCES students as one approach to maximum results from urban redevelopment.

As the architectural services performed by the students reach completion in several areas of the building, other DCC staff members are contributing time to other areas of development.

Clifford Olsen, a Dutchess faculty member with extensive background in theater production, has volunteered his time and services as a consultant in the renovation of the theater area.

In granting $20,000 to Dutchess Community College and permitting a unique learning experience to materialize for its students, the State Education Department took special note of the dual impact derived from rehabilitating buildings for use in the development of an urban educational center while assisting inhabitants of an economically depressed area.

Pearson and His Hope for Peace

Jack Anderson Says

WASHINGTON — Drew Pearson, if he were alive, would be 74 today.

He is remembered as a relentless reporter who covered the backrooms of Washington, a controversial columnist who kept his pencil sharp the better to prick the powerful and deflate the pompous.

But above all the ideals that fired him, he had a passion for peace. There was in his Quaker make-up a repugnance for violence, a faith that men could settle their differences without war.

He attended the death of the League of Nations and the birth of the United Nations. For all his idealism, he foresaw the UN's inability to resolve all international conflicts.

He was not surprised at the impasse over the Middle East, which developed before he died. He would not be surprised at the UN's failure to stop the Indian-Pakistani war quickly.

If he were alive, he would deplore those at the UN who have put procedural wrangling ahead of peace. He would condemn Russia, China and the U.S. for playing big power politics with the lives of thousands of Indians.

Bengalis, Punjabis and Biharis.

While men were dying on the battlefield, Russia obstructed any cease-fire resolution that called for the withdrawal of Indian forces. At the same time, the U.S.

and China opposed a resolution that didn't call for a withdrawal.

Least of all Drew would not spare our own leaders who have been less than candid in dealing with the Indian-Pakistani crisis. They have put on an outward show of neutrality while they have privately favored Pakistan.

Kissinger's Role

In the backrooms of the White House, foreign policymaker Henry Kissinger has been downright hostile toward India. He has contended that India seeks to turn East Pakistan into a "vassal state," that we cannot permit Pakistan to be overwhelmed while the Russians supply aid to India, that our other allies will lose faith in us if we don't honor our commitments to Pakistan, that our whole security structure could be jeopardized if we let Pakistan down.

Kissinger fumed over State Department press director Charles Bray's conciliatory remarks about India and urged that the State Department take a harder line. Finally, Kissinger passed the word that President Nixon would like to see Pakistan throw back the Indian attack.

Inevitably, this attitude leaked back to New Delhi, and Indian-American relations sank to a new low.

Last Wednesday, General S.H.F.J. Manekshaw, India's Army chief, summoned the U.S. military attaché, Col. William King, to his residence and complained that a U.S. C-141 cargo plane had been spotted unloading military cargo for Pakistan at Karachi airport on November 29 at 10:30 p.m.

Several high-priority crates, General Manekshaw charged, were delivered to waiting Pakistani troops. The plane obviously had made "a rush drop," said the General, and had brought "military equipment urgently required by Pakistani forces."

Mysterious Cargo

We have been unable to trace the mysterious shipment. But American Ambassador Kenneth Keating sent an urgent, classified message to the State Department from New Delhi on the matter.

"I consider General Manekshaw one of the most honest and straight-forward Indians I have ever met," reported Keating. "I have no doubt but that Manekshaw honestly believes what he reported. If true, this information is in direct violation to our publicly announced policy."

Perhaps no better commentary could be written on this. Drew Pearson's 74th birthday, than his own report from San Francisco on April 30, 1945. He had gone to witness the birth of the United Nations but became more absorbed in the scene at the waterfront where wounded troops were being transferred from ships to hospital trains.

"Almost every day they come in, noiselessly, tenderly, boys who will never fight again, some boys who will never work again, all boys who hope there will be no war again," wrote Drew.

"A mile or so away from the waterfront sit the representatives of 46 nations trying to make that hope come true. It is a conference the world has awaited so eagerly, for which the State Department has planned so carefully. Fifty officials have been here for a week oiling the diplomatic machinery. An unlimited budget has been at their disposal.

"Yet it got off to a discouraging start. There has been something lacking — no spark, no contagious enthusiasm, no great personality to lift things out of the doldrums of diplomatic routine.

"Perhaps it was the lack of a great dynamic leader. At any rate, the early sessions featured the same cut-and-dried formal futility as the frock-coated diplomats who mourned the League of Nations to the death at Geneva."

Yet until the day he died, Drew Pearson never gave up hope for peace.

The Weeds Are Ahead

Henry Taylor Says

Libya's Problems

Libyan dictator Muammar el-Qaddafi, fresh off a burro's back and into a Cadillac, confiscated the British Petroleum Company's properties on December 6. Thus he has pushed his people further into the penalties from foreign contract repudiation — and now look at what's happening.

El-Qaddafi, a ruthless brawler with chipmunk eyes and perceptions as fast as a gypsy fortune teller's, glories in his repudiations just as Chilean Red President Salvador Allende Gossens is doing. Meanwhile, also as in Chile, the Soviet stands smiling in the rear.

Libya, larger than Alaska, had been under Italian control since 1911 and was the first African nation to gain independence after World War II.

Over strong U.S.S.R. opposition, a United Nations resolution declared that Libya would become independent on January 2, 1952. This was a resounding Western victory, one of our few in the U.N. King Idris was recognized, and Libya became vital in NATO and U.S. defense planning.

The result was a tremendous $600 million U.S. air complex, Wheelus Air Force Base, near Tripoli. And our taxpayers also contributed $234.5 million in economic aid to Libya and millions in equipment to a stand-by Libyan army.

Then, with Soviet backing, 27-year-old iron-fisted Colonel el-Qaddafi overthrew King Idris' pro-Western government. Our flag came down from the last major U.S. military base in all of Africa. El-Qaddafi's revolutionary red, green and black flag went up. He immediately changed Wheelus' name to Uqabah Ben Nafa and welcomed incoming Soviet planes.

El-Qaddafi promptly joined the foreign property assault parade.

Libya has been oil-rich only since 1957 and a major oil exporter only since 1961. Her piddling exports had been peanuts, almonds, olive oil, hides and some esparto grass, an African hemp useful for cordage and baskets.

Libya's per capita income was $40 a year — a poverty region with not enough wood to hang a man, not enough water to drown a man, not enough earth to bury a man; a region where the people scraped for their food, too poor to have occupations, too ignorant to have crafts, too miserable to have pride. They eked out their survival on the eggs of wild birds, on goat and camel flesh and on meal mixed with earth. They bred and died without ever knowing hope.

Then oil strikes brought foreign investments, with full guarantees for security like those which guaranteed the development of copper mines in Chile.

Forty-two Western oil companies, now shrunk to 25, invested in Libya. By the time El-Qaddafi seized power, these supplied 3.3 million barrels daily to 22 free world nations and accounted for 99 per cent of Libya's foreign exchange. American companies handled about one-third of the petroleum to the $300 million annual relief of our balance-of-payments problem.

Per capita income in Libya soared to $1,900 a year — one of the highest in the world.

But commitment-breaking negotiations, which spread throughout the Arab oil-production world and complicated everything — like throwing the baby out the window with the bath water — collapsed the confidence of foreign investors. Their fears were confirmed by El-Qaddafi's December 6 confiscation of the British Petroleum Company's properties.

Accordingly, Libya — like Chile — is in a downhill slide.

Libya shows an 18 per cent drop in 1971 oil exports. The timing, too, puts her in a bind.

Italy is one of the largest oil customers of this desperately stark and depopulated country. But strikes and softer Italian markets have now cut Italy's industrial production by one-third and produced Italy's worst economic stagnation in 40 years. Additionally, in importance West Germany and France, work hours are being reduced and so is the Libyan oil intake.

This year Mediterranean oil area exports have fallen five per cent versus a 21 per cent rise from the Arabian Peninsula, the world's lowest-cost source. And wily El-Qaddafi also faces a worldwide fall in the growth-rate of petroleum's use.

This year's estimated growth-rate is less than seven per cent, far below the average annual 8.1 per cent rise since Libya became an exporter. Even worse, the estimated 1972 growth is only 5.6 per cent. In Tripoli this condition is enough to shatter the nerves of an astronaut.

El-Qaddafi's politically motivated anti-foreign-investment "Program" — like Castro's in Cuba and Allende's in Chile — is the same old story all over again. The forlorn little people themselves are the innocent bystanders who get hurt worst.

Anyone for TV Dinner?

Convenience foods, or processed foods, have taken over such a large part of the food put on American tables, that the Food and Drug Administration has decided to publish standards for nutrients and vitamins they should contain. The standards will not be mandatory, but those who qualify will get a big edge in the marketplace. They will be allowed to carry a label saying their package conforms to federal nutrition standards.

The first guidelines to be published apply to frozen convenience dinners. James D. Grant, deputy Commissioner of Food and Drugs, said other guidelines being drafted are for breakfast cereals, imitation breakfast drinks, snack food, meat substitutes and main dishes such as casseroles. They aim to improve the quality of the food Americans eat.

"In today's marketplace processed foods are replacing traditional foods, and in some instances the nutrient composition of the processed food is vastly different from the food being replaced," Grant told the industry group, Calorie Control Council. "The philosophy of the convenience dinner guideline is that the dinner should carry a balance of essential nutrients."

Specifically, the new guideline will call for convenience dinners to have at least 4.6 grams of protein for every 100 calories, twice the amount recommended on the average for foods in general. The higher ratio takes into account the fact that the processed dinner may be served as a complete meal and may take up one-third to one-half a person's dietary intake for a day. We will be a well-fed nation, whether we do our own cooking, or just heat and serve.

JINGLE HO HO! It's getting to be THAT season, and if you expect to play Santa this year, you might take some tips from the Volunteers of America training course for same: "Be patient. Don't eat garlic or onions. Don't drink or smoke. Don't lean on your chimney. Keep your whiskers on straight. Don't let the kids make a fool of you." Any qualifiers?

BERRY'S WORLD

Mayor Hague Taught Them All

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It is possible to teach political science—but not realpolitik. It was invented by Frank Hague and imitated by Tammany Hall and the Soviet Union with varying degrees of success. Hague disappointed his followers by dying, thus proving himself mortal.

He was a balding redhead with pale blue eyes and a high collar. His detractors say that Mayor Hague of Jersey City, N.J., was nothing more than a well-dressed hood. If so, he was a sort of "Robin Hood" who stole from the rich and the poor and kept it himself.

My Irish grandmother owned a house on Garfield Avenue and she paid $60 a month in taxes in the good old days and voted the straight Hague ticket. Most taxpayers thought those free operations in the medical center were free.

It is a pity history has neglected to study this man. He realized, without formal education, that power corrupts and that absolute power corrupts absolutely, so he took it all. He first pocketed Jersey City, then Hudson County, and finally the State of New Jersey.

He attended Mass every Sunday, donated a $50,000 altar, sent a ton of coal to the sundry poor in winter, and got jobs in factories for the sons of the deserving. There were only two kinds of people: "in" and "out." For those who were "out," even the Summers were bitterly cold.

City and county employees paid Boss Hague three per cent of their annual salaries as campaign contributions. That meant ALL employees. For those who forgot to set the money aside, the administration opened a loan office opposite City Hall where, for a good rate of interest, a civic employee could borrow the money for the bag man.

The people kept pointing to the good things Mr. Hague did. He built the biggest, most expensive medical center. His police department was well paid, although Hague's salary remained at $8,000 a year. His fire department had the best Ward La France equipment; all ambulances and city cars were Cadillac.

He also invented the onionskin ballot and the hard pencil. The poll watchers took the voter's ballot to place in the box, and by running a thumb and forefinger down the sides, could tell whether it was a Democratic or a Republican vote.

The newspapers called the mayor "I-am-the-law" Hague, but, though it was almost impossible to libel the man, they took that one out of context. He had been speaking in a church on Bergen Avenue, telling about a poor youngster who had committed a small crime and who was headed for prison.

Hague said he "had heard about the case, investigated, and yanked the kid out of jail, got him some working papers, and a job. "In that case," he intoned, tapping his chest, "I am the law." He was the law in all cases. Hague could investigate a grand jury.

In the 1920s, a chief opponent on a reform ticket was a comparative stranger in town. Hague beat him and then, it is said, had the man indicted for bank robbery in a town he had never seen. It was done for laughs. Hague permitted the wretch to apologize and creep out of town.

In the old days, Tammany used to send John Curry, Tin Box Sullivan and Jimmy Walker across the river to learn at the feet of the master. Some of Josef Stalin's later works, such as the NKVD and the cleansing of brains, were copied right out of the Hague textbook.

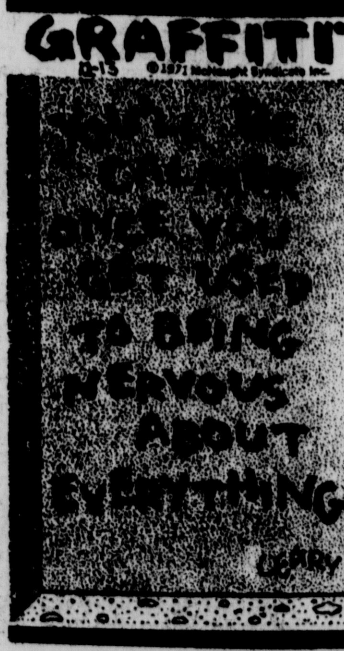

No one, including the Federal government, would have the temerity to bring the Boss to trial on any charge. His successors have been convicted and sentenced to jail, a fact which must wrench Mr. Hague, in whatever bank vault he occupies in the sky.

He never drank, never smoked, and had a childish obsession that a high stiff collar could ward off cancer of the throat. He spent his evenings attending wakes, kneeling to join in a fervent recitation of the rosary, and spent Sunday afternoons visiting the charity cases in the hospital. I am convinced that he knew the private weaknesses of his disciples. He used to send warnings: "Stop betting on the horses or you're out" or "Keep away from that redhead before you create a scandal."

Hague was big on funerals too. He used to stage gaudy ones for ward leaders. One cold winter he had three in one week. Two of the deaths were attributed to marching bareheaded beside the hearse at the first one. One of his leaders murmured: "Boss, two more funerals like this and we ain't got no machine."

A word to the wise went out for everybody to stop dying for awhile...

Freeman Readers Write Letters to the Editor

Hospital Expansion.
(The Freeman herein reprints remarks delivered to the Kingston Common Council in a form of a letter to the editor.)

Mr. President — Members of the Common Council:
I am most appreciative to all of you, for the opportunity to present my viewpoints on this crucial issue. Because of my deep interest in the Kingston Hospital, I have an abiding interest in its problems.

As I elaborate on each issue, I sincerely hope you will weigh each one carefully.

Point I
I wish to make it abundantly clear that any opinions I express, or conclusions that I have reached, are not necessarily those of the Auxiliary. While I am its President, and therefore by intent and desire vitally interested in the present and future of the Kingston Hospital, no resolution by the Auxiliary, properly put to a vote, is to be submitted at this time. It can be provided however, if it is the desire of this Assembly.

Point II
While I am in general agreement with properly maintaining things of "real" historic value, I personally feel that this is purely an issue of local interest, with little or no state or national historical merit.

Point III
As previously stated by members of the Board of Trustees of The Kingston Hospital, it is vitally essential to the Hospital that it acquire additional real estate to accommodate future expansion plans. Certainly, the most economical, is the property which is now owned by the city and which presently houses the City Hall.

Point IV
Even if every claim for historic significance is true, which I don't agree with, the demands for tax monies so far exceeds the available revenues, that is simply "outrageous" to consider spending public monies on such a low priority enterprise of marginal and questionable value, as the City Hall site.

Point V
The priority in my opinion, should be towards improved medical treatment facilities. The Kingston Hospital has functional value. Maintaining the City Hall site is economically unfeasible. The city can ill-afford this extra burden, under the current stringent financial crisis.

Point VI
As President of the Auxiliary, as a citizen and active hospital Auxiliary volunteer, I have seen areas where the hospital must expand; there is growth in the number of out-patients coming to the hospital, and a growth in the number of beds.

I feel I can speak with some semblance of intelligence in the role that has been played by Auxiliary members, and their continued interest and desire to help the betterment of mankind. It was they who banded together in 1891 to form an organization known as the "Hospital Aid Society," and because of them, the Kingston Hospital opened its doors to charity patients on November 27, 1894. For historical purposes, I inject this bit of information: figures reveal that $6,000 a year was needed to maintain the hospital. All that was received by the Managers was $2,500 from the city and $1,000 from the county, annually. Thus, eventually, the city nor the county could maintain it.

Through the years, the Auxiliary has financially and morally supported the institution's endeavors to meet the health needs of the community. Recent figures compiled reveal 142 adult in-hospital volunteers and 50 Candy-Strippers. The total number of volunteers on record—192. The total number of approximate volunteer hours served—18,000 a year. Areas in the hospital that are covered by adult volunteers—14. I cite these figures merely to present to you the dedication of so many people, who I am sure feel strongly that they wish this fine institution to expand and flourish, and who believe in its principles and heritage.

Point VII
It is my belief that Common Council has a moral responsibility also. We're asking for "space," space to meet the needs which you, as a Common Council have encouraged. By your interest in making Kingston and Ulster County grow, which has been true, you have helped to create the additional burden upon the Kingston Hospital facilities. Now, the Kingston Hospital is asking for assistance from you, to help meet this burden. Morally and in all good conscience, can you be more concerned about saving a building than a life!

Point VIII
A community is only as good as its people, and people need help in order to be as good as the community desires. Health care services and public safety are vital to this end. As a concerned citizen, I wish to re-enforce the request of the Board of Trustees of the Hospital, that the city hall property be acquired by the Kingston Hospital.

In closing, I wish again to take this moment to thank you for the time allowed and the courtesies extended.

With all sincerity and humility, I urge you to weigh the issues and come to a realistic decision. What you decide may well affect the health and lives of this generation, and many generations to come.

I am confident you will make the right decision.

Thank you!

Minority Parties

Editor, The Freeman:
Here's an example of poor reporting, to say the least.

An AP dispatch prior to the election in Philadelphia (Fourth largest city in the country) dealing with the mayoralty contest in that city dealt at length about the two major party status quo candidates with only ONE paragraph that says:

"Four minor party candidates, two of them women, are expected to have little impact on the outcome."

Now, in all fairness, what the heck would have been wrong if the reporter who wrote the article had seen fit to at least let readers know who these candidates were, the names of their party, and what their aims were?

No wonder there are many people who as my days in the service showed, seriously think there are only two parties in this country and who never even heard of the Socialist Labor Party, let alone what it stands for.

Anyway, to set the record straight, the Socialist Labor Party candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia was George S. Taylor, a member of the working class, the ONLY useful class in society.

Let's hope we get better reporting in the coming 1972 Presidential campaign.

Treanor Support

Editor, The Freeman:
The Hudson Valley Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers which represents 9 counties, strongly urges the county legislatures to hire someone whose personal qualifications are professionally competent for the position of Commissioner of Social Services.

Mr. Paul Treanor has indicated an interest in the position. We feel that he possesses the sensitivity and training experience required of a person who will be responsible to administer health and welfare needs in Ulster County. This appointed position should be taken out of the realm of politics that want to do this, and candidates should be adjudged for their professional competence.

Legal Tender
If the victims of the Stewart Airport debacle would like to test the integrity of the Federal Supreme Court there may yet be a chance to save their property.

The Constitution of the United States clearly defines the power of Congress to coin money and regulate the value thereof.

Federal Reserve notes are not money! They are, as stated, notes, obligations, acknowledgements of debt. At the present time the Federal Government does not even put a value on them. They cannot be redeemed for anything of guaranteed value.

The Federal Government has declared them to be legal tender. That is to say, they can force you to accept them in payment of debt, public or private.

But when it comes to the State Government, can the owner of property that is confiscated by a State agency be forced to accept notes of Federal obligation, in lieu of money, as payment in a transaction that he did not agree to carry out?

My personal checks have a lot more real value behind them than the Federal Reserve notes. I can't force you to take my check in order to buy something from you. The debt is incurred only after the deal is agreed to. You can't force me to accept Federal Reserve notes if I offer to sell you something for money. You owe me the money; you have the debt to pay only after I transfer ownership of the item over to you. Then you can force me to accept Federal Reserve notes. Only then is it a debt.

Read those contracts. If they mention anything about one dollar or any payment in good and lawful money, then you cannot be forced to accept script, fiat money, notes of obligation, or anything that the government calls "legal tender" because the only lawful payment the Constitution has ever recognized is stated as follows, Sec. 10, "No State shall make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts." This section of the Constitution has never been repealed!

Respectfully yours,

Editor: The Freeman

Another election has come and passed, however, in November of 1972 Americans will have the opportunity to exercise their constitutional right to vote. As a result of indiscriminate voting, perhaps voting straight party line or possibly not voting at all, the Government of the United States is no longer controlled by the people. The Constitution provided America with a unique form of Government, a limited form of Government, that could be controlled by its citizens. However due to our indiscretion, Americans are being controlled by the Government. The Constitution is the greatest tribute to mankind's effort to be free of tyranny and to have the God given right to be free. Any

State or Nation that contends or implies that their Government can provide for your needs in life or suggest that they, the Government, will guarantee you your freedom, this very same Government can if they choose deny you your God given right to Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness.

The Constitution was formed for the people, by the people; therefore, we must make every effort to be a part of that Government. If we fail to make this effort, then we indeed shall be governed by unscrupulous power hungry politicians.

To quote Daniel Webster, "God grants Liberty only to those who love it and are always ready to guard and defend it." If Liberty and Civil Justice is to prevail in America, then it behooves all Americans to unite behind the Constitution of the United States and not behind the promises of a politician that lacks integrity.

Sincerely yours,

KINGSTON political philosophy of the Conservative Party that a nation should be expelled without just cause, according to a party spokesman.

State Party Chairman J. Daniel Mahoney has announced, "It is hard to believe that, with a maximum of effort, the United States could not have prevailed on this issue. It is even harder to square our professed determination to save the Taipei seat with a visit to Peking by presidential envoy Henry Kissinger, which coincided exactly with the U.N. debate."

Sheriffs Nab County Man

ROSENDALE — A 21-year-old Tillson man was arrested Sunday night by deputy sheriffs on two counts of assault as the result of an accident on Springtown Road in this township.

Man Arrested
For Attempted
Armed Robbery

POUGHKEEPSIE — A 30-year-old man was in the Dutchess County jail today in lieu of $15,000 bail in connection with the attempted armed robbery of Victor C. Waryas, a former city mayor and state assemblyman in his liquor store at the Poughkeepsie Plaza. James Fisher of 13 Academy Street, this city was taken in custody Sunday night by city and town police. He was arraigned in the town justice's court and pleaded innocent.

Police said Waryas, the newest member of the Poughkeepsie Trial Commission for Police and Fire Departments, struggled with the man and disarmed him. The accused man fled. The weapon was described as a starter's pistol. It was not loaded.

Following the mishap, according to police Wayne Waddell, 21, of P.O. Box 822, Tillson, went to the scene and allegedly assaulted Frank Cantwell of High Falls, who charged the youth with third degree assault.

Waddell later was cited for assault second degree on complaint of Town Police Chief Walter Byer of Rosendale, who was allegedly assaulted by the defendant.

Arraigned before Town Justice Raymond LeFever, Waddell was released in bail of $50 pending a hearing on Dec. 14. He pleaded innocent to both charges. The arrests were made by Deputies Angel Baez and Clark Johnson, the sheriff's records showed.

Driver Nabbed
On DWI Charge

GARDINER — Charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated after he was stopped on Albany Post Road in this community Sunday night, Robert F. Cruver, 23, of Gardiner, was released in $50 bail pending a hearing Friday before Town Justice Samuel Stokes.

Cruver pleaded innocent to the charge. He was arrested by Trooper George P. Rebhanx of Highland.

Housing Still

from now" but that "the owners would be paid his property's worth by urban renewal."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig does not share his building inspector's views on this particular subject. The mayor feels that Broadway West should be made the subject of an overall study aimed at (possibly) another urban renewal project. The city owns a number of buildings in the area, 44-55 Broadway, 97-99 Broadway (the old recreation center) and 17 through 23 West Strand. The properties were taken by the city for non-payment of taxes.

Koenig feels that rehabilitating buildings in Broadway West "would not solve the problem" (of the need for housing for large families) and might cause additional problems if Broadway West were ever approved as an urban renewal area. The possibility of that is several years hence, Koenig said, as the federal government will not approve another urban renewal project for Kingston until its two ongoing projects are completed, programmed for mid-1973.

There has, however, been increased interest in the Broadway West area since The Freeman's revelations on Welfare.

Another suggestion, from City Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, is a somewhat revolutionary. Klein contends that the Social Services Department should form a sort of housing authority and construct low income housing. The present setup, Klein asserts is wasteful both in a monetary and a human sense. "They house people under miserable conditions and pay outrageous prices for it. They might be better off building their own decent housing," Klein said.

All parties seem to agree that there is a need for standard housing for large families in Kingston, be they welfare, or otherwise.

OBITUARIES

Anton Kelsch of Maple Hill died in Kingston Sunday evening following a long illness. A native of Austria, he was a retired chauffeur and had been employed by Hill and Trandele Inc. of Tillson. Surviving are his widow, the former Johanna Kelsch; a son, Frank; three sisters, Mrs. Clemmie Wheeler, Miss Anna Kelsch and Mrs. Elizabeth Acker, all of New York City. NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened higher today in the first trading session after the Federal Reserve Board lowered the discount rate and President Nixon signed a tax-cut bill.

Advances led declines by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board prices included Greyhound, up 1/4 at 19 1/4; Tele. dyne, up 1/4 at 22 1/4; Natomas, up 1/4 at 68 1/4; Gulf Oil, up 1/4 at 28 1/4; and Howmet, up 1/4 at 12.

Stock market prices rose Friday, as the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 4.60 to 856.75.

Big Board volume was 17.52 million shares compared with 14.71 million shares Thursday.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks climbed .44 to 53.99.

Analysts said selective buying in the glimmers more than made up for the profit taking pressures that had been in evidence all week.

American Stock Exchange prices also advanced with the Amex price change index up .13 at 24.94 on a volume of 4.5 million shares.

FORCED OUT OF BUSINESS — Inflation has perhaps dealt its cruelest blow to 86-year-old toymaker Arthur J. Lipan, Bay City, Mich., who has been forced to quit because of the high cost of materials. Mr. Lipan has been making his sturdy toys for 23 years since his retirement, and has made toys for 40 grandchildren and 60 great-grandchildren besides the great number he has created for sale to the public. Lindsay Labeled Long-Shot Candidate

By KIRTLAND I. KING
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York will certainly be a long-shot candidate if he goes after the Democratic presidential nomination.

Richard Aurelio, who resigned as deputy mayor to assess Lindsay's chances of winning his new party's nomination, has many conflicting reactions from political leaders throughout the country.

Some of the most disturbing reports come from friends of the mayor. They are not saying much but many are reported "real cool" to the idea of Lindsay going after the White House next year. And, there are others who have lined up with Sen. Edmund Muskie.

Wisely, Lindsay is passing up the New Hampshire primary—the first in the nation—just as Sen. Henry Jackson did. New Englanders have a habit of sticking together and Muskie is one of them.

The brightest report for the New York City mayor, however, came from Indiana. Indiana Democratic Chairman Gordon St. Angelo said that last October Lindsay campaigned on behalf of nine Democratic candidates for mayor in Indiana and seven were elected.

"I call that a very good showing," the political leader said. "I followed him around the state of Indiana, and he made a lot of friends."

He added that Lindsay would make an effective presidential candidate in Indiana "or for the entire United States."

While Lindsay was campaigning in Indiana, however, some of his close Democratic mayors in New York State were not fairing so well. Mayor Frank Sedita of Buffalo was badly beaten for Erie county executive, and Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse saw most of his candidates go down to defeat.

The New York mayor will have to do more than prove his vote-getting appeal in Indiana. How does he stand in California, New York, Pennsylvania or Texas? Those are the questions to which Aurelio must get the answer. And, he is trying.

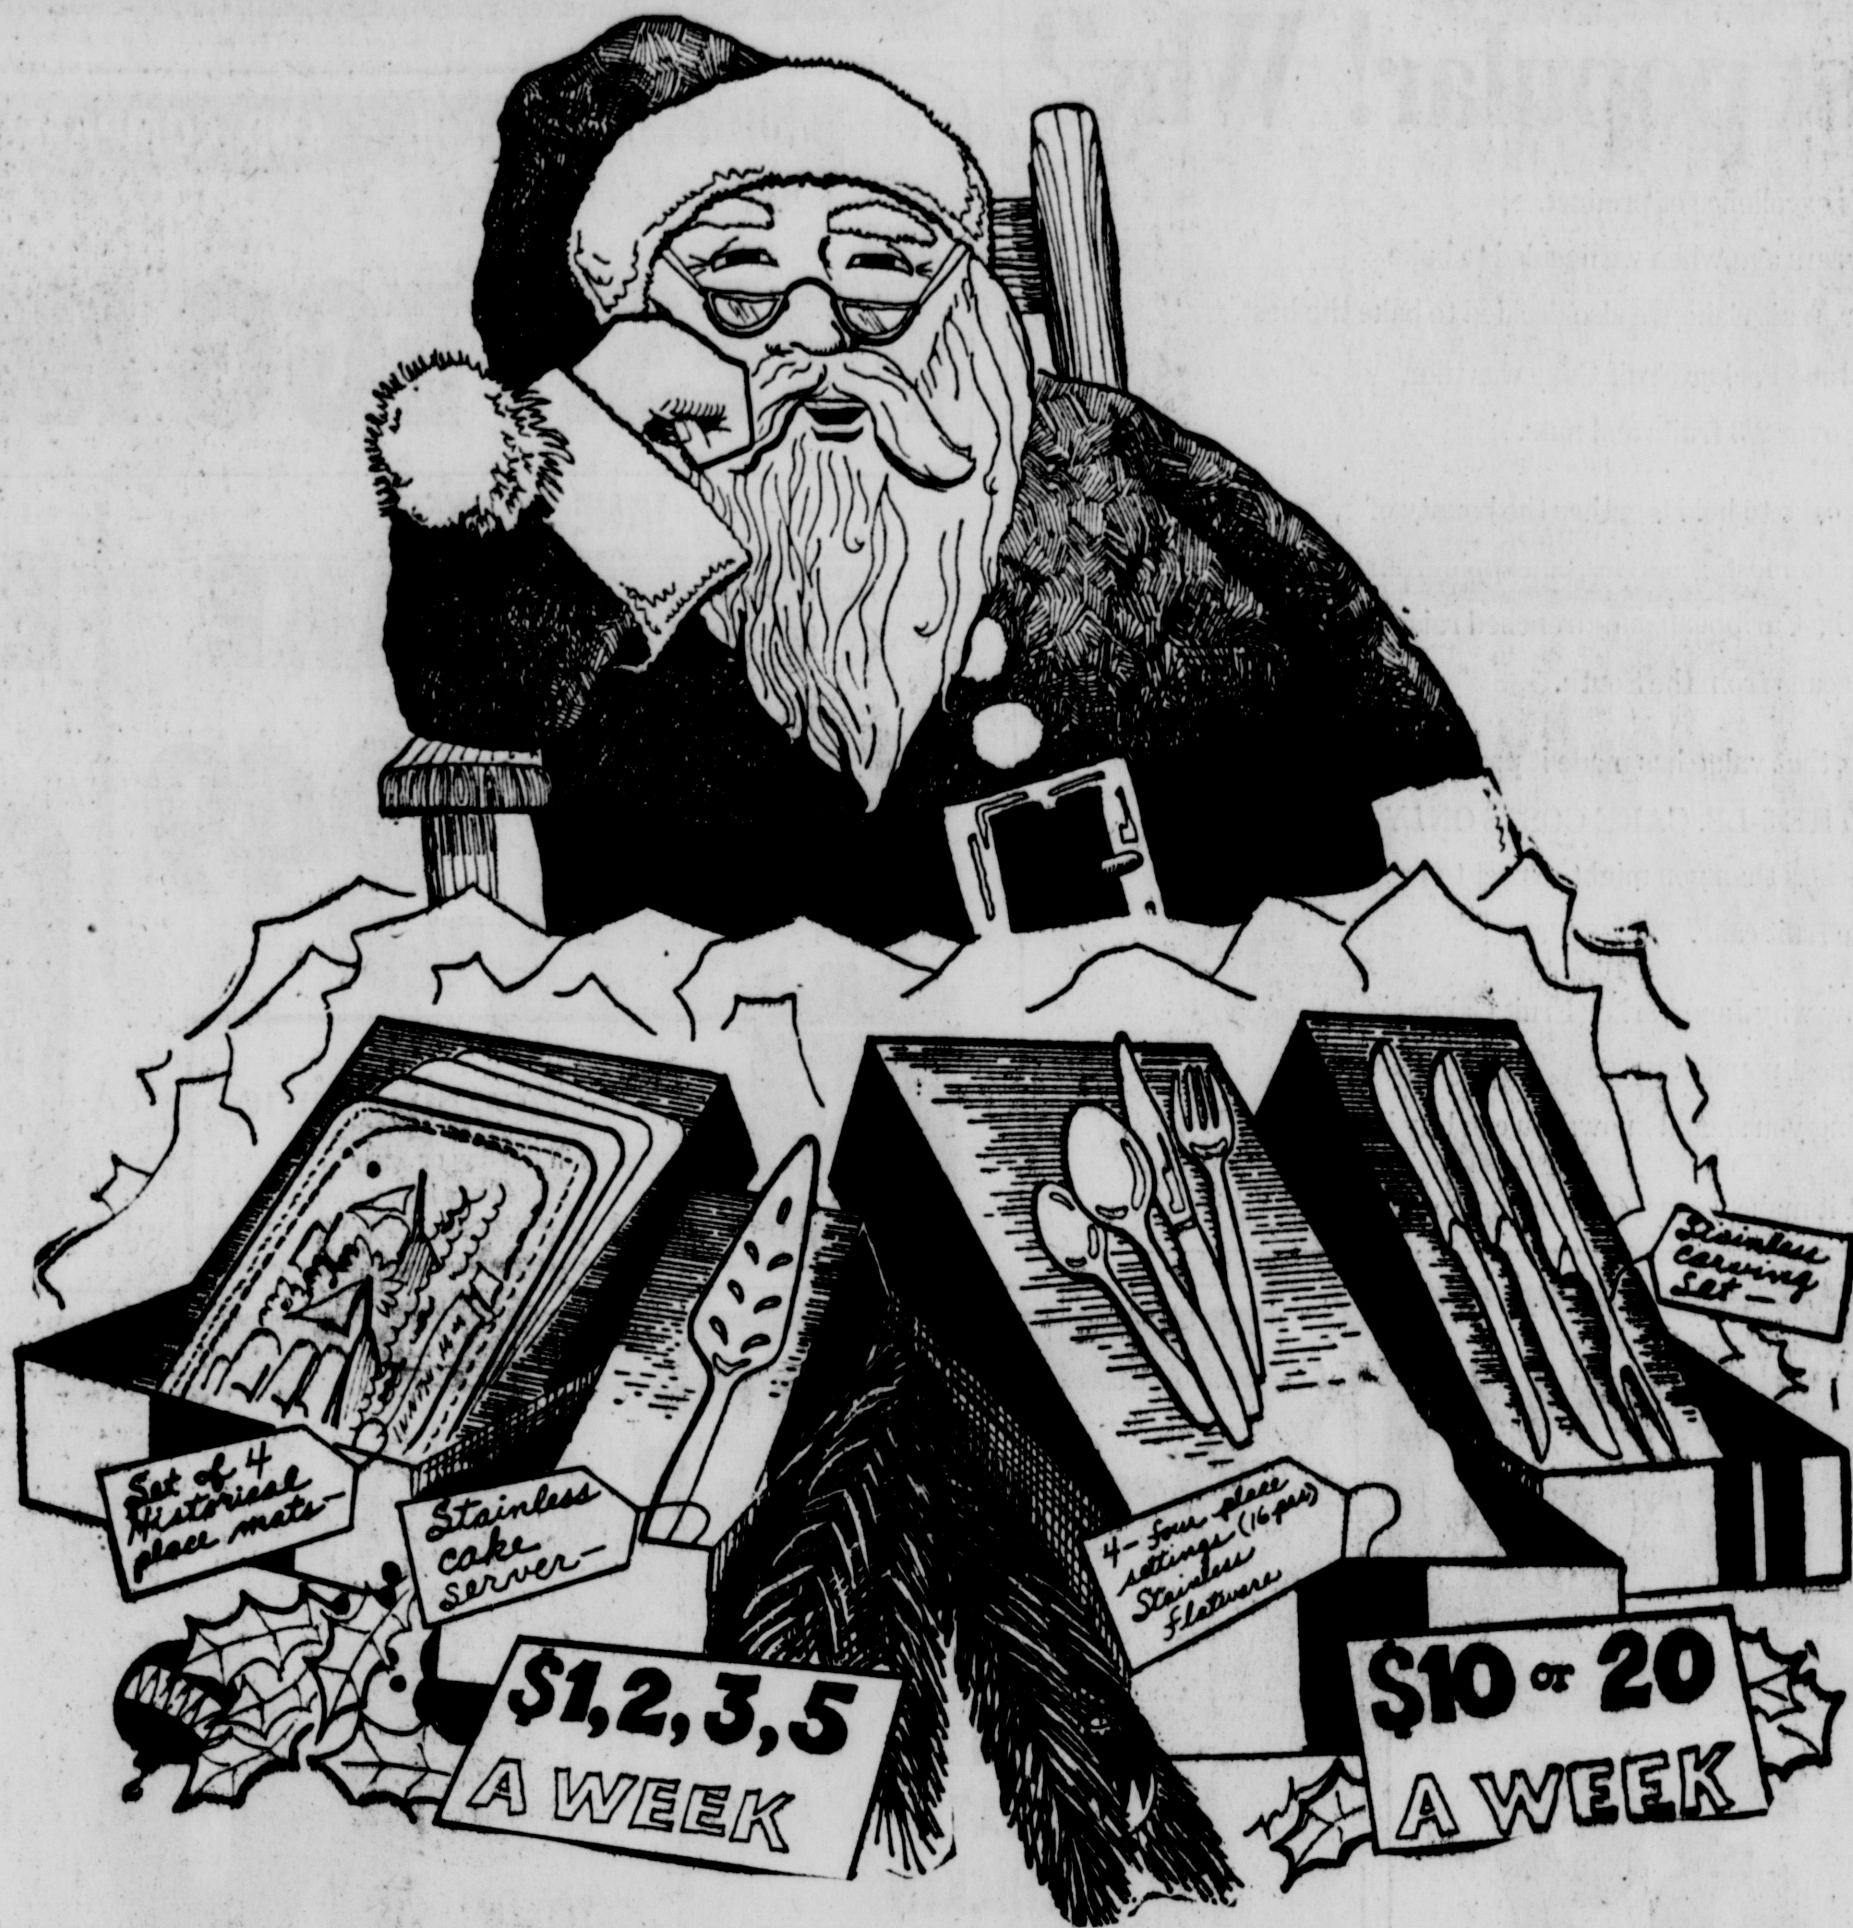

A New York City newsman

recently reported Lindsay was on a nationwide television show and received favorable letters that could be counted on "your fingers."

"Doesn't mean a thing," a Lindsay friend remarked.

One influential political leader is convinced Democrats may turn to Lindsay to head-off a third party. His idea is a "moderate" like Muskie or Jackson would be picked to head the ticket and the New York mayor for vice president.

"One thing is sure," the political leader said. "If Lindsay isn't on the ticket, he will be in the cabinet if the Democrats win. He can't miss. And, he wants out of New York in the worst way."

Another name for Santa Claus in the Hudson Valley?

Bankers Trust!

That's not as far fetched as it sounds! Not with the Christmas Club package we're offering now.

Just think of it. A free gift of your choice from those illustrated here. A bonus of 4 1/2 percent interest. And, the most important of all—cash for next year's Christmas presents. When you need it most. All this, just for opening a Bankers Trust Christmas Club now.

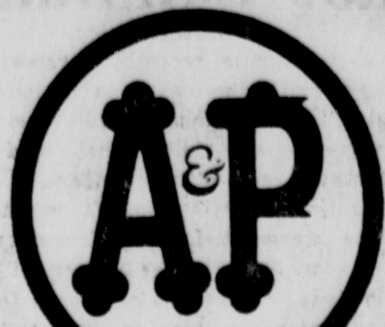

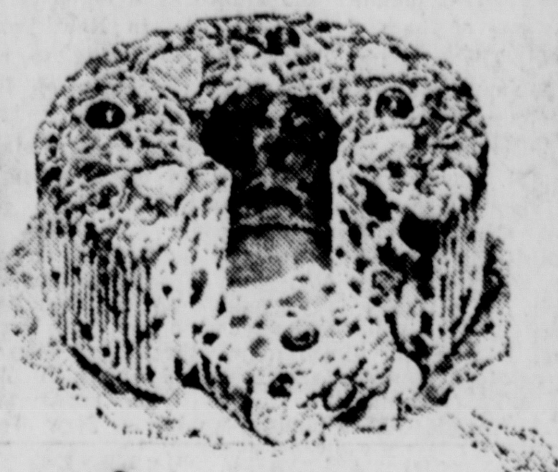

Our Christmas Club packages come wrapped in all the convenient sizes—from one dollar a week to twenty dollars a week. You merely choose the package to suit your needs (and your pocketbook), and you'll walk off with one of these fine gifts. And the interest. And the guarantee that you'll be prepared for next year's Christmas shopping.

Sound too good to be true? Not if you really believe in Santa Claus.

FOODS*It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.

Years and years ago, when we decided to bake

Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.

That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough cake to hold together the bounty of imported and domestic cherries, pineapple from the Far East, citron from the Caribbean, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.

IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $4.99.

That's dollars less than you might expect to pay for such a fine fruit cake.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.

One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

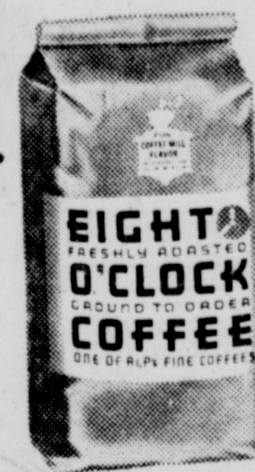

P.S. Wouldn't it make a great gift for someone?

Police Training Course Graduation

40 Receive Certificates

By WALTER S. CLARK

award winners were presented
It is only when the citizen receives the benefits of skillful police service that he begins to appreciate the contribution of our dedicated peace officers. K. Riggins of the Kingston Police Department received the highest award for attaining the highest overall average at the school, and Patrolman John L. Schatzel of Kingston was awarded a Capri Restaurant this week. Each of the 40 men were presented with certificates. Three rector of the New York State Municipal Training Council, Zone 4, was a guest speaker. He gave high praise to Sheriff Martin and Lieutenant Robert Cummings, training assistant of MPTC and a retired state trooper, for their efforts in organizing the recent training course which featured addresses and reports from instructors rated high in their respective professions.

John F. Malone, chief of the FBI in the New York District, was another guest speaker, who added his praise to the directors of the course and the men who attended the school. Malone was among the key instructors during the course that began on Oct. 11.

In brief remarks, Cummings and Martin extended their thanks to all men and women who were instructors during the course, and also to all persons who in any way assisted in making the event a success.

"The desire to serve can be fulfilled regularly in law enforcement," Martin said. "Each problem or crime solved or prevented, each contact with a fellow human being, can be a positive force for good. Each may contribute to some one else's well-being and may help to create a better and safer tomorrow."

Martin told the graduates that the citizen expects police officers to have the wisdom of Solomon, the courage of David, the strength of Samson, the patience of Job, the leadership of Moses, the kindness of the Good Samaritan, the strategy of Alexander, the faith of Daniel, the diplomacy of Lincoln, the tolerance of the carpenter of Nazareth and finally an intimate knowledge of every branch of the natural, biological and social sciences.

"If he has all of these, he might be a good policeman," the sheriff said.

Corporal Douglas Van Giesen of the sheriff's office, who was president of the graduating class, presented to Martin and Cummings certificates of appreciation. He thanked all instructors and others who took part in the training course, not ing that Deputy Charles E. Cooper, who assisted in organizing the class, did a fine job.

Sheriff Martin and Lieutenant Cummings listed the graduates who received certificates as: Wilfredo M. Adell, Richard D. Hobart and Carl B. Mayer of the Ellenville Police Department.

Larry W. Andrews, Thomas E. Hackett and Edward G. White of the Dutchess County sheriff's office.

Louis Barbara Jr., and Daniel M. Legg, Saugerties Village Police. Robert J. Riley, Saugerties Town Police.

Chief William E. Waterous, Ludwig S. Baumgarten and Charles Wolven, Town of Woodstock Police.

Richard A. Bazelow, Frank J. Berardi, Willard M. Bound, Charles C. Brodhead, Thomas F. Cook, Charles E. Cooper, Merle C. Greene, Ira I. Hasbrouck, Robert O. Johansen, Clark M. Johnson, Gerald M. Keller, Richard P. Ostrander, Fred M. Schmidt, Douglas W. Van Giesen, Jeffrey M. Whitaker and Charles Daley all of the Ulster County Sheriff's department. Daley completed the course in two sessions.

Michael E. Jubie, James K. Riggins and John L. Schatzel of the Kingston Police Department. Michael E. Britton of Pawling, William G. Corin, Greene County Sheriff's office.

Charles M. Davis and Dennis L. Tasker of the New Paltz Village Police Department. Efraim F. Melendez and Dennis J. Zappone, Town of New Paltz Police Department.

Robert M. Moul, Red Hook Police Department. Harold E. Reynolds Jr., Town of Wawarsing Police Department. Richard P. Wenz, Marlborough Town Police.

Calvin R. Brueckner of the Ulster County sheriff's office, attended the course but had insufficient hours to graduate.

Arthur Neressian and Emanuel Samuels of the Ulster sheriff's office, expect to complete the course in two years.

Town Board Member... ...Always His Own Man

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

Robert Wolfert sat on his last regular Rhinebeck Town Board meeting recently as a councilman, but his "lame duck" status did not deter him from making his opinions known in no uncertain terms.

In speaking with Wolfert at his Wurtemburg Road home this week we were reminded of the several times we had seen him as the sole opponent to an issue on the table at a board meeting.

Some parting shots included: opposition to giving pay raises to public officials during their term of office; appropriating monies for "status" items not necessary; and endorsement of the revised zoning law to a great extent after being opposed to the original offering.

Wolfert, who had but a grammar school education when he became an office boy for National City Bank in New York at the age of 14, worked his way through several notable careers including manager for an Irving Trust office in New York; being a treasurer for a Fiorello LaGuardia campaign; preparing budgets for the Borough of Manhattan Parks Department; and beginning a full-fledged career in the nursery business that is still in progress.

He was unceremoniously ousted from the Republican ticket this November after serving four years as councilman. The party instead endorsed neighbor Delevan Wolcott, who subsequently swept to victory with little problem.

Several key Republican Party members remarked at the time of the caucus that they were "gratified" with the results of that caucus.

At the recent final public Town Board meeting, the only person to thank Wolfert for his years of service was the chairman of the Democratic Party in Rhinebeck, Paul Gmeiner.

Prior to the campaign, Wolfert told The Freeman that he would run only if no other candidate representing the rural aspects of the town could be found. And he did not actively campaign for reelection.

"I have been a representative," he said at his home, "not a politician."

Some thoughts on issues before the Board, both past and present, include the decision announced this past week by Grand Union not to relocate a shopping center on Astor Flats.

"I think it should be there," he said. "I am constantly amazed at the number of people who do their shopping in Kingston."

About the zoning law: "The large number of changes to the zoning law both prior to its passage and since shows that there were too many mistakes in the first draft," he noted.

And he cited specifically the original proposal to have three and five acre minimum lots in a large part of the town. "The Kids coming in cannot afford to spend $3,000 or $4,000 for a piece of land," he said. Wolfert also commented on what he termed the "excellent" persons on the Board of Appeals.

He spoke, off the record, about several personality clashes in Rhinebeck politics that had brought about his demise on the Board.

And as for the future, Bob Wolfert, 74 years old, will keep his widespread nursery service going. It numbers such distinguished clients as the State University at New Paltz; General Electric in Schenectady; several golf courses and Hudson River estates; and a host of private individuals.

He said he had been offered money several times for some of his 75 acres of land along Wurtemburg Road, but has repeatedly turned down attempts at commercial usage.

And as we left, Wolfert spoke of budget items giving some Rhinebeck officials pay raises during the term of office or appointment, which he decried.

"I kept a journal for a year," he said, figuring that his rate of pay just for attending meetings came to 25 cents an hour. And that's the way he wanted it.

JESSICA LEONARD

JOANNE SEELBACH

PATRICIA ANN MINERVINI
(Photo Workshop)

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin Leonard, Babylon, L.I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessica Leonard, to Harvey Gilbert Gregory of New Paltz. He is the son of Mrs. Milton Schoonmaker Gregory, New Paltz and the late Mr. Gregory.

Miss Leonard was graduated from Babylon High School and Sullins College, Bristol, Va. Mr. Gregory was graduated from Trinity-Pauling School, Pauling, Tex. They both received BS degrees in Elementary Education from Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa., Class of 1971.

Both Miss Leonard and Mr. Gregory are members of the faculty of Valley Central School System, Montgomery and have been accepted for graduate study at State of New York University at New Paltz. A June wedding is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Seelbach, 14 First Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Joanne, to Robert A. Calazza, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony M. Calazza, 7 Duzine Road, New Paltz.

Miss Seelbach is a graduate of Kingston High School, Class of 1971, and Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services School of Practical Nursing. She is a practical nurse employed by Benedictine Hospital.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of New Paltz Central High School and a student at Dutchess Community College. He is employed as an inhalation therapist technician by Benedictine Hospital. A July 15, 1972 wedding is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. John Minervini, 235 Smith Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Michael Charles Pugliese Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pugliese Sr., 224 West Chester Street, Kingston.

Miss Minervini was graduated from Kingston High School, class of 1971, and is attending Ulster County Community College. Mr. Pugliese, a 1969 graduate of KHS, is also attending UCC. He is employed by UCC Office.

The wedding is planned for October 21, 1972.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Leary, 40 Madison Avenue, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Ann Perry, to Lawrence Joseph Bujak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bujak, 50 Crane Street, Kingston. The bride-elect is also the daughter of the late John J. Perry and a granddaughter of Joseph Perry, Crane Street. Her fiancé is a grandson of Mrs. Ann Bujak, First Avenue.

Miss Perry is a member of Kingston High School, class of 1972 and is employed by Ralph J. Carpio Insurance and Real Estate. Mr. Bujak is a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School and an alumnus of Ulster County Community College. He is self-employed in the electronics field.

Benefit Concert Saturday

The Woodstock Youth Center, a non-profit organization well known to area teenagers, will present Miss Patricia Cummins in a concert of classical song on Saturday, Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. at Woodstock School auditorium.

While this at first seems unlikely collaboration, with the image of teenagers turning from Rock and Roll to Brahms, the reason for the concert is easy to grasp. Miss Cummins, mother of three teenagers herself, has spearheaded the Youth Center's Ski program, which gives youngsters a chance to get to nearby ski slopes without straining their budgets. The skiers pay a low charge for bus rental and get group discounts at Catskill Ski Slope. In order to keep the trips open to all, the program was designed to run at a deficit, so that cost would not keep anyone from participating. The program was highly successful last year and enthusiasm is running high for this year's program.

This year, by using the talents of Miss Cummins and Karen Ranung, piano, the Youth Center hopes to raise enough money in advance to insure that the program will continue without outside help. Miss Cummins' exceptionally rich contralto voice has been heard here at the Kleinert Gallery, The Artists Association, and the Maverick. She has been increasing her training and experience during the last year by participating extensively in the Vocal Seminar Series given by Karen Ranung in West Park. It is hoped that a full house will welcome her first appearance this close to home in several years.

Tickets are available in advance from the Youth Center, via most sking teenagers, from the Corner Cupboard in Woodstock, and at the door. Donations are tax deductible.

PATRICIA CUMMINS

Hanukkah Party for B'nai B'rith Women

A gala Hanukkah party will entertain B'nai B'rith Women at a meeting on Thursday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. in the social hall of Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Kingston. An exciting evening of games, exchange of gifts and refreshments has been planned. Prospective members are welcome.

Mrs. Berhardt S. Kramer, chapter president, has announced that a board meeting will be held on the same evening at 7 o'clock. All board members are requested to attend.

The Hudson Valley Council of B'nai B'rith sponsored a morning meeting concerning the Anti-Defamation League on Sunday, Dec. 12 at Temple Sinai, Middletown. The program was entitled: The Image of Israel and Jews in a Non-Jewish Society. Speakers included Alex Miller, national ADL staff member; Israel Moss, regional member; and Mrs. Kurt Goldberger, Anti-Defamation chairman of Women's District No. 1.

Hanukkah gifts for needy families have been purchased by the chapter under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mason Millens in cooperation with the Ulster County Board of Social Services. Finances for this project and the many other social services of B'nai B'rith are partly raised by the sale of an annual birthday and commercial calendar and directory. Professional and business listings, as well as family birthday and anniversary listings, are solicited at a nominal charge. The drive takes place in November and December with directories being delivered in March. Key personalities who have helped to prepare for this year's sale are Mrs. Arnold Cohn, Mrs. Burton Feit, Mrs. Samuel Feldman, Mrs. Harris Gally, Mrs. Edwin Kalish and Mrs. Seymour Semilof. The project is under the direction of Mrs. Massie Mehl.

Mrs. Kramer has announced also that a bake sale will be held at Waldbaum's Supermarket, 9-W North, on Friday, Dec. 17. The committee making preparations includes Mrs. Burton Feit, Mrs. Sidney Weinberger and Mrs. Gerald Feit, under the guidance of Mrs. Mehl, vice president in charge of fund raising.

'Resigned' Provokes Reader Response

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "RESIGNED" interested me, but your very clever non-answer interested me even more. "Resigned" said her husband batted zero in the love department, "but when a woman can't change a situation, she had better learn to live with it. And that's what I'm doing. Outside of being no Romeo, he's a good, sober, hardworking man, which is a lot more than some women have." And she signed herself "RESIGNED". Your answer: "As long as you remain 'resigned' you'll have no problem."

Now, I ask you, Dear Abby, what if she doesn't remain resigned?

"ONCE RESIGNED -- BUT NO MORE"

DEAR ONCE: Either the woman's frustrations overwhelm her, and in order to get some attention she becomes a neurotic with some very real symptoms. Headaches, backaches, "nerves," pill-popping, martinis, to name a few. Or she finds herself a romance on the side, and the only thing that bothers her is her conscience — occasionally. But rather than take her problem to a professional, who might be able to improve her relationship with her husband, she keeps telling herself it's hopeless, because she really likes the situation as it is, and if her husband should "recover," she won't be able to justify her playing around.

And by the way, this works the same with the husband who justifies his playing around because his wife is "cold." There are no "cold" people, just those who don't know how to kindle the fire and keep it going.

DEAR ABBY: This is a letter to "Resigned" and to all her spiritual sisters who find themselves in a sexually unfulfilling marriage, and who nobly tell themselves, "When a wife can't change a situation, she had better learn to live with it. After all, he is a sober, hard-working man, and for security and the children's sake, etc., etc."

That was me 20 years ago. I also made the best of a marriage with a dull, unresponsive husband, and I suppressed everything I felt inside, and even convinced myself that I was in control and was doing the right thing.

Now I am 45, my children are grown, and all the frustrations I've suppressed for years have suddenly broken thru. I suddenly realize that I've probably done my husband a great injustice by assuring him that everything was "fine," and I was perfectly happy with things the way they were. For in a way, he was cheated too. I don't know yet how this will turn out, but the realization that I've compromised my life away is almost unbearable.

I have no advice for all the "Resigneds" of the world, except perhaps to say that right now you are dealing with surface feelings, and one day you'll have to face your inner feelings honestly. And my God, how it hurts! JUST "ME"

DEAR ABBY: In all the years I have been reading "DEAR ABBY, I think the letter signed "RESIGNED" is the most intelligent I have ever read in your column.

Here is a woman who had a cross to bear, and she bore it. No woman has everything. That woman's husband did not give her the sexual satisfaction she would have liked, but she revised his other attributes and was grateful for them. That woman was a saint!

We would be amazed at some of the things we can do without if we have to. Sign me

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: I agree, if a woman MUST do without something, she shows maturity and intelligence in accepting her lot with grace and being grateful for that which she has to compensate. But in this enlightened age while some women MUST live without sexual fulfillment, many do not. They just think they do.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Making It in a Man's World

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — To the students and their teacher at the New School for Social Research in New York, "making it in a man's world" doesn't have a thing to do with Letty Pogrebin's book on "how to make it" in that same territory.

It is the title given to a course conducted by Charlotte Klein. And it's a course that deals with women's ambitions in their careers and ways in which to deal with the obstacles they must face in human relations.

"At the first meeting," Charlotte said, "I asked them where they as women are right now and where they are going. What do they think about themselves as people and in their careers and what do other people think of them? And I said we would see if these opinions matched."

Charlotte Klein is a spokesman with authority. She HAS made it in a man's world. She is a senior vice-president of Harsh-Rotman and Druck, public relations firm. She was formerly a staff correspondent for United Press and a lecturer at Boston University and Pace College.

The aim of her course at the New School is to provide women who wish to get ahead in their fields with realistic guidelines and techniques and to acquaint them with the extent of their chances to move up. Also to explore the male and female attitudes toward women executives and the scope of women's opportunities today.

"Many women whose children are grown up want to get back into the labor market," she said. "And if they have the ability to do better they don't want to go back as typists — victims of male chauvinism."

But men don't get all the barbs at Miss Klein's class. One guest lecturer took the males to her heart. "Women are allowed to have feelings," she said. "Men's emotions are supposed to be suppressed. I'd be resentful if I were a man and I couldn't even cry but my secretary could. I'd have to present a feeling of superiority to cover up my resentment."

One reason for Charlotte's instituting her course is her disapproval of the fact that in our growing acceptance of what life is all about, the pill has given women sexual equality. But there's still no "medication" for job equality, she said. "But equal sex isn't. Equal pay is competitive."

"In the labor market a woman always has to be exceptional. She has to be better than a man to move up. When she succeeds it's a big news story. Why?"

One man, a personnel director, is enrolled in the course. And there are male guest lecturers, too.

"This course is not given to make any woman believe she's entitled to any job," Charlotte said. "If a lack of ability keeps her down she has to recognize that and not use sex discrimination as a cop-out."

Her course centers on the extent of opportunities for women, how legislation affects the employment of women and the legal recourses women can call on if they feel the unfair touch of discrimination.

"We're in a low bargaining position," Charlotte said. "Corporations will say a man has a family and needs more money. Or they will say they are afraid you'll have a child and leave."

"I brought to the class the U. S. Labor Department studies that show absenteeism is greater among men than women."

During the course this year (there will be further courses in the future) successful case histories of women in business, medicine, law, education and the arts are analyzed with the aim of providing exemplars for students in their own upward climbs.

Charlotte Klein believes that when deserving women can at last take their rightful place in the business world many men will be pleased that it happened.

"Change is always frightening," she said. "It's only the courageous or the fools who welcome it. But other countries — India, Israel, England are ahead of the United States in using women in government. And they haven't had reason to regret it."

This course isn't even remotely rabid women's lib. It's a carefully thought-out program for women to realistically evaluate themselves and their potential — based on their abilities and not on their sex. It sponsors human rights rather than women's rights.

"First determine what you're capable of achieving and then, if you can't make it only because you're a woman, you have a right to complain loudly," Charlotte said. "But don't think that capable or not you should be given a top job just because you are a woman's lib notwithstanding."

There's nothing militant about Charlotte Klein regardless of her success in business. She's attractive, feminine and realistic — and the ideal person to be giving a course on how without bitterness and with honest self-appraisal a woman can make it in a man's world.

Distaff Digest

Women of the Moose

Kingston Chapter 697, Women of the Moose, will hold a regular meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the lodge meeting room, 82 Prince Street.

All members are urged to attend.

Memory Trees

Two Memory Trees, sponsored by Saugerties Society of Little Gardens, are lighted at the Ellen Russell Finger Home and at the C.A. Lynch firehouse. A nominal charge is made to light a bulb in memory of a loved one. Through the courtesy of Beadle's Drug Store, names and donations may be left at the store on Main Street.

For further information, contact Mrs. James Babb, Mrs. Gordon Keeley, Mrs. Michael Mattia or Mrs. Frank White.

Christmas Meeting

The Monday Club of Saugerties will hold its Christmas meeting today at the home of Mrs. George Transom.

Mrs. Herbert Dratz of Cairo, a past officer of Ontario Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and a past state officer, was guest speaker at the December 6 meeting of the Club which took place at the home of Mrs. Robert M. Freilich, Finger Street.

Mrs. Dratz spoke on the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence. Her message was a reminder of the contents of these documents and of the foresight, strength of character and intellect which enabled our forefathers to write them.

Mrs. Dratz is now serving on the president General's Speakers Staff for New York State.

Mrs. David Jones, president, presided at the business meeting. A tea and social hour took place afterwards.

Christmas Caroling

A night of Christmas caroling will be sponsored by Ladies Auxiliary of Active Hose No. One, Rosendale, Thursday, Dec. 23, at 7 p. m. starting at Rosendale firehouse. All ages from eight years of age and older are invited to participate. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

Hanukkah Observed

The Festival of Lights or Hanukkah was observed at a regular meeting of Sisterhood of Agudas Achim on December 8. Cantor Herman Slomovits chanted a Hanukkah hymn while lights were lit. Rabbi Howard Gershon gave a brief description of the holiday and explained its significance.

The NCSY, the youth group of the synagogue, displayed and sold gifts for the holiday. It was announced that installation of officers would take place on January 15.

Lattes, a traditional food of the holiday, was served. Refreshments were prepared by Mrs. Irving Rudolph, Mrs. Morton Levine, Mrs. Ben Werbalowsky, and Mrs. Herman Schneider.

Several awards were presented.

Concert Scheduled

The PTO of New Paltz Middle School will present the annual Middle School and Choral Concert Friday, Dec. 17 at 8 p. m. in the Middle School auditorium.

Performing will be the fifth and sixth grade chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Doreen Perugini; the Middle School Concert Band, under the direction of Albert Rohnstein; and the seventh and eighth grade choir, under the direction of Mrs. Bythema Bagley.

The event is intended as a family night. The community is invited. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria.

Program Planned at OCCC on Tuesday

Violins and electronics will be joined in a unique two-part program scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 14, at Orange County Community College, Middletown.

Professor Paul Zukofsky, the leading violinist in contemporary music, and Joel Chadabe, director of the electronic music studio at the State University at Albany, will be featured in an afternoon workshop and evening concert, both open to the public.

At the 3 p. m. workshop in room 302, Harriman Hall, Professor Chadabe will demonstrate a new portable Sonic Five Synthesizer from the Moog Music Company with whom he has worked on electronic music systems. The workshop is free to all.

The program for the 8:30 concert in the Orange Hall auditorium will include "Lyric Variations" by J.K. Randall, pre-recorded violin and computer-generated sounds; and "Drift" and "Shadows and Lines" by Professor Chadabe, violin and electronic sounds.

Violinist Zukofsky is an artist-in-residence at the State University at Stony Brook, and a recording and concert performer. The events are sponsored by the OCCC Lyceum Series in cooperation with the University-wide Committee on the Arts.

St. Francis Hospital Auxiliary Dessert Meeting

The St. Francis Hospital Women's Auxiliary will hold a dessert meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 14 at the Holiday Inn in Poughkeepsie. Following a "social half hour" at 7 p. m., dessert will be served at 7:30 p. m.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Holy Trinity School Glee Club, directed by Sister Henriette, IHM. The singers, boys and girls from grades four, five and six, have appeared before parish groups and have also performed on the annual Christmas Musical Programs of Station WEOK. Selections will contrast the "New Sound" in Christmas music with traditional holiday melodies.

In charge of arrangements for the event are Mrs. Edward Wallin, hospitality chairman and Mrs. Joseph Butler, program chairman. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Dominic Lynch, Miss Ann Purcell and Mrs. Ralph Tortorella. Mrs. Leroy Hendrickson is telephone chairman, and decorations for the event will be the work of Mrs. Maurice Sipple, Mrs. Joseph Cassidy, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Wallin.

Candy Strippers Social

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary will honor its candy strippers at a trim-a-tree buffet supper Tuesday at 5:30 p. m.

Committee members include Marguerite Meyers, Dottie Schwabkopf and Marilyn Osterhoudt. During the summer months, the candy strippers donated 2213 hours of service.

A HOLIDAY TREAT — APRICOT EGGNOG SOUFFLE

Special Christmas Casserole

Apricot Egg Nog Souffle

Souffle dish or casserole, two-quart
Six to eight servings
Preheated 325 degree oven
One cup dried apricots
Three-quarters cup water
One-quarter cup (one-half stick) butter
One-quarter cup all-purpose flour
One-quarter teaspoon salt
One and one-half cups dairy eggnog

Three quarters cup flaked coconut
Three-quarters teaspoon nutmeg
One-half teaspoon rum extract
Four egg yolks
One-half cup sugar
Four egg whites
In a saucepan cook apricots in water, over low heat, about 20 minutes or until apricots are tender and all water is absorbed. Chop and spread in bottom of souffle dish; set aside. In saucepan melt butter; stir in flour and salt. Remove from heat; gradually stir in eggnog. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in coconut, nutmeg and rum extract. In a mixing bowl beat together egg yolks and sugar until thick and lemon-colored. With mixing bowl beat together egg whites and sugar until thick and lemon-colored. With mixer at low speed, add eggnog mixture beating only until blended. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; pouring slowly, carefully fold in eggnog mixture. Turn into souffle dish. Set in shallow pan on oven rack; pour hot water in pan around souffle dish to one-inch depth. Bake 60-70 minutes. Serve immediately topped with Eggnog Sauce.

EGGNOG SAUCE:

Yield: one and one-half cups
One tablespoon cornstarch
One and one-half cups dairy eggnog
One-quarter teaspoon rum extract

In a saucepan gradually stir eggnog into cornstarch. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook two additional minutes. Stir in rum extract. Serve hot over Apricot Eggnog Souffle.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

DEAR MRS. POST: There was a query recently in your column about taking a gift when a group is invited to someone's home for the day. You replied that it was not necessary, but would be a thoughtful gesture, to bring a plant, cookies, etc. I agree — but I think you missed the point.

Suppose a few guests bring gifts. Doesn't that embarrass the others who don't? This question has always puzzled me, and often I decide against bringing anything because of the others who may have forgotten, or thought it unnecessary.

What do you think?

LILLIAN

Dear Lillian: In most cases I would agree with you, and I never recommend taking gifts to dinner party hostesses for the very reason you mention. However, an all-day invitation seemed beyond the ordinary, and perhaps merited a gift. Ideally, the group should have gotten together and contributed to a single present.

DEAR MRS. POST: My husband and I will celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary soon. We would like to entertain our friends. Please tell me if our plans are correct. We do not drink alcoholic beverages and many of our friends do not, so we will have a fruit punch and coffee, small cookies, mints and nuts and maybe a wedding cake. We plan to invite our friends to an open house with no mention of an anniversary so no one will bring a gift. I have been told open house invitations mean alcoholic drinks will be served and that people won't come to a party unless they are served drinks. Should we have a receiving line? Who should be in it? Our future daughter in law may be at the party and none of our friends know her as she's from another state. Should she be in the line?

Mrs. J. Scott

Dear Mrs. Scott: Alcoholic drinks are never obligatory. Parties are primarily for enjoying other people's company, for entertainment, and for good food and drink of whatever sort the hostess wishes to serve. Anyone who feels he cannot enjoy those things without liquor is in sad shape indeed!

Your open house sounds grand (you might add small sandwiches). Don't change your plans, and I'll guarantee you your real friends will be there with bells on.

You need not have a formal receiving line unless you wish to. If you do, your sons and daughters and your son's fiancée should receive with you. This is a fine time to introduce her to your friends. When the line breaks up she should join your own children in helping out. If you have no line, be sure that you and your husband stay close to the door to greet your guests.

AND Carats
WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

You can tell how good a carrot is by looking at it. Failing that you can taste it. Even so, the most you could lose is a few cents even if your carrots were far inferior to your estimate. Not so with carrots...or more plainly, diamonds. Even experts or so-called "appraisers" sometimes make mistakes. Best way to buy diamonds is to spend most of your efforts picking the jeweler. That saves a lot of time and guesswork. How? Just pick the jeweler who has a solid reputation for value and gives an absolute guarantee of satisfaction. The rest follows naturally. You can't miss.

Yuletide Breads Stir Memories of Christmases Past

FESTIVE HOLIDAY BUNS featuring milk chocolate chips are easily fashioned from a hot roll mix.

Nostalgia for the "good old days" is the 1971 theme for holiday preparations all over the land. For the next few weeks, the kitchen will be the center of a hubbub of activity, where fresh and fragrant old-fashioned treats will be turned out to delight both young and old.

Bread baking is once again fashionable...and fun. Many women enjoy baking "from scratch," and still more start with a good mix, then use imagination to turn out personalized versions of tempting coffee cakes, sweet breads and buns.

The "Yuletide Brunch Buns," shown here, demonstrate how, with a hot roll mix, you can quickly and easily shape sweet dough into "candy canes" and "Christmas wreaths" for festive holiday breakfasts and brunches. These sugar-glazed sweet buns feature milk chocolate chips joined with your choice of a brown sugar and nut filling or a pineapple filling.

Yuletide Brunch Buns

One package (fourteen ounces) hot roll mix
Three-quarters cup warm water (not hot)
One egg

One-quarter cup sugar
One cup (five and three-quarter-ounce package) milk chocolate chips
One-half cup confectioners' sugar

One tablespoon milk
Garnish: Red and green candied cherries, quartered

In large mixing bowl, soften yeast (from hot roll mix) in warm water; stir to dissolve. Blend in egg and sugar. Add hot roll mix; stir until well blended. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about one hour). Meanwhile prepare either Brown Sugar or Pineapple Filling (see below).

On well-floured surface, toss dough lightly until no longer sticky. Divide dough in half, rolling one half into a 14x7-inch rectangle. Spread half of filling evenly on dough; sprinkle with one-half cup milk chocolate chips. Starting from the longer side, roll up, pressing to seal edge. Cut roll into one and one-half inch slices. Arrange buns, cut side down, on a greased baking sheet to form a candy cane or holiday wreath. Repeat procedure with remaining dough. Cover and allow to rise in a warm place until almost doubled (about one hour). Bake at 350 degrees for fifteen to eighteen minutes or until golden brown. Combine confectioners' sugar and milk; drizzle over buns. Garnish with candied cherries. Serve warm. About two dozen buns.

Brown Sugar Filling

One-half cup brown sugar, packed
Three tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Three-quarters cup chopped nuts

Combine sugar, butter or margarine and nuts in small bowl; blend well.

Pineapple Filling

One cup canned crushed pineapple, drained and syrup reserved
Two tablespoons reserved pineapple syrup
One tablespoon cornstarch
One-quarter cup sugar

Combine pineapple, syrup, cornstarch and sugar in a saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils. Cool.

Shabanowitz Celebrate 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Shabanowitz of Kerhonkson celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a party hosted in their honor by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cohen on Saturday evening, Nov. 27. It was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Sondak.

The couple was married on Saturday, Nov. 23, 1946 by Rabbi Samuel Krolowitz in Brooklyn.

They have two children, a daughter Miss Marla Beth Shabanowitz, and a son, Daniel Brian Shabanowitz. The guests included her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shandrowski; her sister, Mrs. Jesse Cohen, husband and family, Merryl, Stewart and Martin Paul; and friends and relatives from Plattekill, Brooklyn; Malone; New Hyde Park, L.I.; Far Rockaway; Matawan, N.J.; Woodbourne Accord; and Kerhonkson. Approximately 50 people attended.

A buffet was served along with a two tier silver anniversary cake.

$600 A MONTH TAX FREE CASH

when you go to the hospital to help pay for the things your other insurance doesn't cover.

- Cash to help pay for the 'deductibles' and 'extras'.
- Cash to help make up for lost paychecks.
- Cash to help pay for a housekeeper or practical nurse.
- Cash to help keep the children in school.
- Cash so Mother won't have to look for a job.
- Cash so you won't have to borrow.

No age limit • No health questions • No salesman will call

We have a great family insurance policy for you. It pays at the rate of $600 a month for adults ($360 a month for covered children) for as long as they stay in the hospital.

If you're 65 or over, you're paid $420 a month in benefits, but only for your first three months in the hospital. From then on, you collect full benefits of $600 a month.

No Charge to Start Your Protection

To attract as many new policyholders as possible, we offer you coverage without charge while you're inspecting your policy. The National Home policy has very few ifs, ands or buts. You can understand it in just a few minutes. There's a 50-50 chance that someone in your family will go to the hospital this year. If it happens to you, you'll find our benefits a godsend.

Tax-Free Cash Paid Directly to You

The money is tax-free, which makes $600 worth from $702 up to $899 in monthly income (not counting New York City taxes), and even more if you're in a high tax bracket. And it is paid directly to you—not to any doctor or hospital. If you have bills to pay, you decide who gets paid first. If you're free and clear, you can put the money in the bank.

Regular Hospitalization Insurance Isn't Enough

Do you have group insurance where you work? A Blue Cross Hospitalization Plan? A Blue Shield Medical Plan? Major Medical? Or are you on Medicare? You'll find, when you go to the hospital, that most policies like these don't pay all of your bills.

Take Medicare. Today there is a $60 Hospital deductible and a $50 Medical deductible. Then there is 80-20 co-insurance on the Medical portion (they pay 80% of the bill and you pay 20%). Finally, there are maximum allowances for each type of medical service. If a doctor charges more than the allowance—as many do—you have to pay the difference.

So if you run up a $1,000 medical-hospital bill, you'll probably have to pay some $200 yourself. Quite possibly more.

This National Home Policy Never Runs Out

Most people don't discover the limitations of their insurance until they go to the hospital. Then it's too late.

For example, do you know that most group policies have a dollar limit on what they pay? That many run out in six months? Do you realize, in other words, that a long illness might put your family on welfare?

Our policy never runs out. If you have to spend the rest of your life in the hospital, we pay you for the rest of your life. At full benefits.

The tables on the right explain exactly what you get, what you don't get, and what you pay.

Get Started Now

Most important, though, is that it costs nothing to start your coverage for you and your entire family. You have plenty of time to study our policy and see how it helps fill the gaps in the insurance you already have.

If you like your policy, you can keep it in force for as little as $4.90 a month. Otherwise, pay nothing, and we'll forget the matter.

If you keep the policy, your cash benefits—at the rate of $600 a month—are protecting you from the effective date shown in your policy schedule.

Here's what we pay

(over and above Medicare and all other insurance)

If you're under 65

$600 a month when you go to the hospital, starting from the very 1st day of confinement. Payments continue as long as you are hospitalized—for life if necessary.

—PLUS—

$360 a month cash when a covered child (18 and under) goes to the hospital. Payments continue as long as the child is in the hospital.

All your premiums after you, the policyholder, have been confined by a covered hospitalization for 8 weeks in a row. We pay the premiums for your entire family plus your monthly benefits until you leave the hospital. We pay them for life if necessary.

If you're 65 or older

$420 a month cash when you go to the hospital, starting from the very 1st day of confinement. Payments continue for three months, then become...

$600 a month cash for as long as you're hospitalized—for life if need be.

—PLUS—

$360 a month cash when a covered child (18 and under) goes to the hospital—the same benefit as for policyholders under 65.

All your premiums after you, the policyholder, have been confined by a covered hospitalization for 8 weeks in a row—the same benefit as for policyholders under 65.

Here's what we don't pay

This policy does not cover confinements in U.S. Government hospitals, nursing or convalescent facilities, or hospitalizations due to:

1. War or Act of War.
2. Mental disorder.
3. Pregnancy.

4. Pre-existing conditions you had before the policy effective date if that condition causing the confinement was manifested within 2 years prior to the effective date of the policy (during the first 2 years only). Meanwhile every new condition is covered.

Here's what you pay

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium* Per Adult
16-44	$4.90
45-49	5.60
50-54	6.30
55-74	7.00
75-79	8.50
80-84	9.90
85-89	10.60
90 and over	11.40

Add $2.70* per month to cover all unmarried children under 19. Newborn and adopted children are covered automatically at 1 month at no extra charge.

*All Premiums lower if paid in advance quarterly, semi-annually or annually. NOTE: These rates will not go up as you get older. They will not go up if you make frequent claims or large claims. Nor can the company cancel your policy for these or any other reasons. Only a statewide adjustment (up or down) of all policies like yours can ever change your rate. And no one can cancel this policy but you.

No catch to these low rates

When you see premiums this low, you'd suspect that the policy is full of clauses that make payouts few and far between. This is not the case.

Look high and low through the provisions set forth in this ad. Let your lawyer or insurance agent help. You'll find no unusual exclusions.

Indeed, we feel that this plan's payout provisions are among the most liberal available. For example:

- We pay benefits on Workmen's Compensation cases. Many policies don't.
- We pay benefits for life if necessary. Many policies have a 1-year or 2-year limit.
- We continue your insurance regardless of age. Some policies cancel you after a certain age.

• We excuse you from paying premiums when you are hospitalized longer than 8 weeks in a row. Most policies don't.

How then are these low rates possible?

We sell insurance by mail. And administer it by mail. And have cut the cost of contacting you down to postage stamp size.

The special plans offered by the National Liberty Corporation group of companies are today helping policyowners in all 50 states and many foreign countries as well.

Your neighborhood letter carrier makes it all possible. He delivers more insurance for your money. And you don't even pay him a commission.

"I think National Home's $600.00-a-month plan is just about the best additional financial protection you can give your family. That's why I'm happy to give this plan my wholehearted endorsement. I've made a point of getting to know some of the folks at National Home. And you won't find more decent, friendly people to deal with. Believe me, when you need them, they'll be there to help you. That's why I cannot imagine anyone passing up the chance to enroll in this health plan."

HARD WORKERS — Members of the Environmental Task Force pause for a moment's respite at the recycling depot in Kingston on Saturday, where they gathered some 22 tons of newspapers and magazines. Overall, an estimated 106,000 pounds of recyclable paper were collected at the three

Reapportionment Session Called by Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Lawmakers get a glimpse into the crystal ball of reapportionment Tuesday when the New York Legislature is convened in special session.

Gov. Rockefeller issued the formal call to assemblymen and state senators Sunday, following up his promise to deal with the complex problem before the end of the year.

The redistricting is mandated by U.S. Supreme Court rulings on one-man, one-vote representation.

Legislators have awaited the redistricting based on the 1970 census more than a year. Because of population changes, it is expected the redistricting bill create three new senate seats, raising the number of state senators to 60. But the number of seats in the 150-member Assembly is expected to remain the same.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea had alerted members of their houses over the weekend to be ready for the 7:30 p.m. session.

Assemblyman Francis B. Land, R-Binghamton, chaired the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment. Republicans now hold a majority in both houses.

The regular session of the legislature convenes Jan. 5, when congressional reapportionment will be taken up by the lawmakers.

Rockefeller had said he would call two special year-end sessions.

The second session is to be called during the week of Dec. 27 to deal with fiscal matters, but Rockefeller has yet to specify a precise date. The amount of notice given to legislators for special sessions is not specified in the state constitution.

The fiscal session is to deal with the $1.5 billion deficit projected by the governor for the next 15 months.

Audit Raps State System

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Privacy, civil rights and civil liberties have gone unprotected in some instances, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's office said Sunday in a report critical of the New York State Intelligence and Identification System (NYSIS).

The audit said, among other things, that the Army and Navy have been permitted to use the agency's files, although not authorized by law.

"We found areas in which privacy, civil rights, and civil liberties have not been protected," the audit said.

More than four million fingerprints and 416,000 criminal histories have been accumulated by NYSIS since it was set up in 1966 as a central information point for criminal justice agencies.

The audit, which recommended that NYSIS let only legally authorized personnel use the files, noted that 3,600 "users" have access.

As for military access, the audit said that the files are used to check up on enlistees. But, the audit asserted, "there is no check to assure that their search is restricted to enlistees only."

The practice of permitting military personnel to use the files, according to the auditor's statement from NYSIS officials, "is a time honored tradition which accompanied the transfer of the State Correction Department identification function to NYSIS in 1966."

Attempts were being made to have military personnel use FBI files, instead, NYSIS officials told state auditors.

Council Director Arrested For Blue Laws Violation

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A director of the New York State Council of Retail Merchants was arrested Sunday for selling Christmas decorations in his suburban Colonie garden supply store in violation of the state's 90-year-old "blue laws."

William C. Starr was arrested, police said, after complaints had been received about the Sunday sales at the Starr Gardenway on Route 7.

This was the only arrest of the day made by Colonie police who said they were acting only on signed complaints.

Starr said that for the better part of the last 11 years his business has been open on Sunday.

He is scheduled to appear Dec. 16 before Colonie Justice Frank Tate who last year ruled the "blue laws" violate the 14th Amendment. His ruling was overturned last week by Albany County Judge Martin Schenck.

Other scattered incidents in the area underlined general confusion concerning the applications of the "blue laws."

When a woman shopper at a Latham supermarket was told that she could not purchase a box of disposable diapers on Sunday, she pitched the box into a display of soda bottles.

In many Colonie supermarkets, certain sections were roped off, prohibiting the sale of clothing, drugs, cosmetics, certain paper products, and automotive supplies.

One store owner said dog or cat food could be purchased on Sunday but not canary or parakeet food.

Magazines, could be purchased, he said, but not books, or hardware, shaving supplies, light bulbs, rock salt or sanitary napkins.

Some stores were closed and some reported losing money. One discount drug store closed early claiming lost profits, because it could sell only prescription drugs.

Albany Dist. Atty. Arnold Proskin called the law "a patchwork" Sunday, noting that the original law had been changed over the years because of new products and changes in the definition of necessity items.

He also said it would be "very difficult" to supply retail merchants with a list of the items that can be sold on Sunday, noting that the district attorney's office "can't give legal advice beforehand."

"I'd like to make it very clear that my own feelings (on the blue laws) have to be put aside," said Proskin.

Beacon Teachers Vote To Accept New Contract

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — A public school teachers strike scheduled for today was called off Sunday when the Beacon Teachers Association voted unanimously to accept a one-year contract termed "extremely generous" by school board president Mrs. Jeanette Tomlins.

The 195 teachers voted Friday to strike today if a replacement was not ratified for the teachers' contract which expired last July. Negotiations for the 1972-73 pact start in February.

Mrs. Tomlins said the pay increases average 8.5 per cent. The contract sets starting salaries at $8,350, $650 above the previous minimum. It also provides that probationary teachers who are dismissed will receive an oral reason from the board.

The six Beacon public schools have about 2,300 pupils.

Sierra Club To Hear Stewart Talk

HYDE PARK
C. David Loeks, president of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, will discuss the results of his organization's special staff report on "The Future of Stewart Airport" at Tuesday's meeting of the Mid-Hudson Group of the Sierra Club.

The discussion will take place at the Visitor's Center of the Vanderbilt Historic Site in Hyde Park beginning at 8 p.m.

Among the items Loeks will discuss is Pattern's recommendation that Stewart Airport serve as one of several satellite airports to be developed over the next several decades to alleviate air traffic at the three major airports in the New York metropolitan area. It is Pattern's opinion that these satellite facilities will preclude the need for the "so-called" fourth major metropolitan jetport.

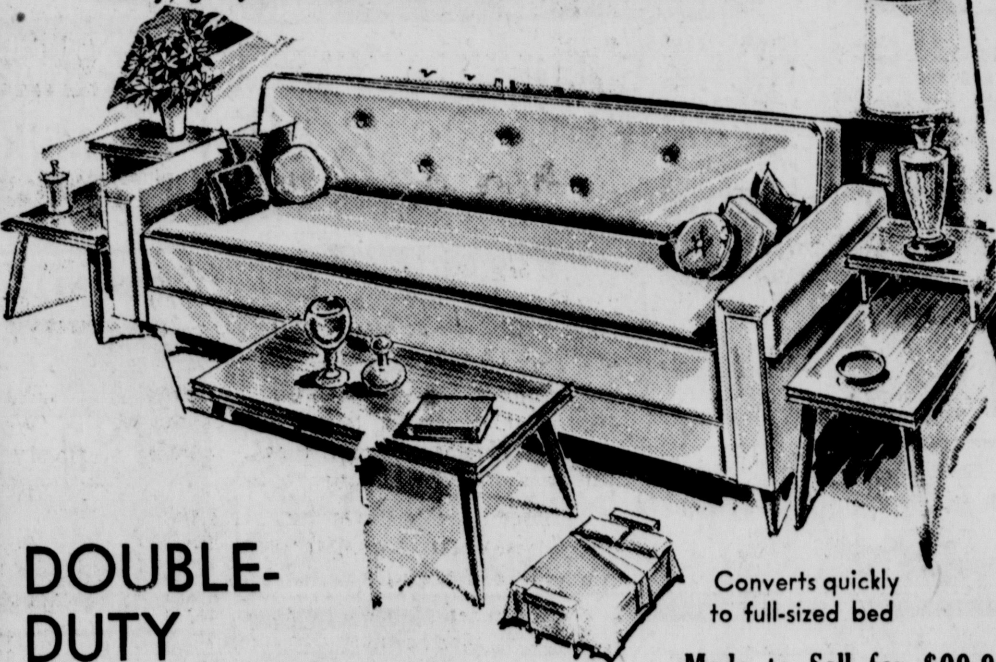

Pattern also recommends that a ceiling be placed on the "annual commercial air carrier movements" at Stewart to "alleviate unacceptable environmental effects."

Loeks has long served in the field of urban and regional planning and once served on the Planning Board of St. Paul, Minn.

Pattern is a privately financed, nonprofit, nonpartisan regional planning, research and development organization designed to help guide the future growth of the seven-county region lying between New York City and Albany.

Savings Banks Report Record Nov. Deposits

NEW YORK

The 120 New York State savings banks had a record November inflow of $282,952,000, the Savings Banks Association of New York State reported today.

Ira O. Scott Jr., executive vice president of the association, said that both time and Day-of-Deposit to Day-of-Withdrawal accounts registered equal gains.

There were small net gains in regular savings accounts in contrast to the pattern of heavy net outflows which had been prevalent in recent months, he added.

The net deposit inflow in October was $158,859,000 and $47,653,000 in September. Last August, the savings banks had inflows of $68,923,000 and $95,506,000 in July.

The New York City savings banks had deposit inflows of $193,583,000 last month.

In November 1970, the state's savings banks had deposit inflows of $194,063,000; in November 1969, $64,721,000; November 1968, $121,192,000.

Inflows in five sample cities outside New York City totaled $45,262,000 last month. The cities are Rochester, $4,803,000; Buffalo, $23,524,000; Syracuse, $6,936,000; Albany, $5,984,000; and Yonkers, $4,015,000.

All figures are after adjustment for passbook loans to save interest-dividends.

Kansas City, Dallas Win Divisional Titles

Raiders' Blanda Ran Out of Miracles

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

George Blanda ran out of miracles and the Oakland Raiders are champs no more.

Blanda, the 44-year-old quarterback place kicker who had rescued the Raiders time after time last season, couldn't do it Sunday and the Raiders' four-year reign as American Football Conference Western Division champions ended with a 16-14 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs.

Otis Taylor caught four crucial passes and was awarded an interference call on another as the Chiefs drove 90 yards to the Oakland three before Jan Stenerud kicked a 10-yard field goal with 1:34 left to play. The victory gave Kansas City its first divisional title since 1966 and also insured Baltimore and Miami, running 1-2 in the AFC East, of playoff berths.

Blanda replaced Daryle Lamonica at quarterback in the second quarter with the Chiefs leading 10-0 and for a while, it seemed like last season all over again. The "miracle man" marched the Raiders to two touchdowns, the second a one-yard plunge by Marv Hubbard. Jerrel Wilson's punt attempt at the Chiefs' 26. But Kansas City had its own miracle man in Taylor.

Len Dawson threw passes of 16, 9, 15 and 4 yards to Taylor and cornerback Jimmy Warren was called for interference, giving the Chiefs a 29-yard gain to the Raider 12. Stenerud's deciding field goal came four plays later.

"The team depends on me to make the big catch," said Taylor. "I know I've got to be the one that pulls 'em out of the hole — and that gives me confidence. I like to think I had Warren beat pretty good on that interference call. Whether he tripped me intentionally, I don't know, but it was a clear penalty."

Hank Stram, the Chiefs' coach, called it, "one of the greatest games we've ever had. The catches by Otis were splendid. This game is typical of what happens when we get the ball to him."

Oakland Coach John Madden was dejected. "I felt we had them," he said. "We had the opportunities to score. Now the season is over for us as far as any championships are concerned."

In other NFC action, San Francisco kept its playoff hopes alive by ripping Atlanta 24-3. Green Bay stomped Chicago 31-10 and Philadelphia whipped St. Louis 19-7. Minnesota clinched the Central title Saturday with a 29-10 victory over Detroit.

In the AFC, Houston edged Buffalo 20-14. San Diego clobbered Denver 45-17. The New York Jets beat New England 13-6 and Pittsburgh rallied to defeat Cincinnati 21-13. Baltimore beat Miami 14-3 Saturday to take a half-game in the AFC East but the Chiefs' victory assured both teams of playoff berths.

Cleveland, which clinched the AFC Central title last week, edged New Orleans 21-17 in the only inter-conference game.

John Brodie threw 23 yards for one score and ran five for another to keep San Francisco's playoff hopes alive. The victory left the Forty Niners percentage points behind first place Los Angeles, which takes on Washington tonight in a crucial encounter for both teams.

John Brockington became only the fourth rookie in NFL history to gain more than 1,000 yards as he led the Packers over Chicago. Brockington, who scored one TD, gained 62 yards to push his season's total to 1,032.

Tom Dempsey kicked four field goals and Pete Liske threw a 69-yard TD pass to Harold Jackson as the resurgent Eagles beat the crumbling Cardinals. Dempsey, dropped by New Orleans earlier this year, hit on field goals of 27, 22, 24 and a club record 54 yards.

Robert Holmes' two-yard TD run with 24 seconds left gave Houston its victory over Buffalo and assured the Bills of the No. 1 pick in the February pro football draft. The Bills are 1-12.

John Hadl's four TD passes, including a 77-yarder to Gary Garrison, sparked San Diego over Denver. The four TD passes put Hadl into the league lead in that department, with 21 for the season.

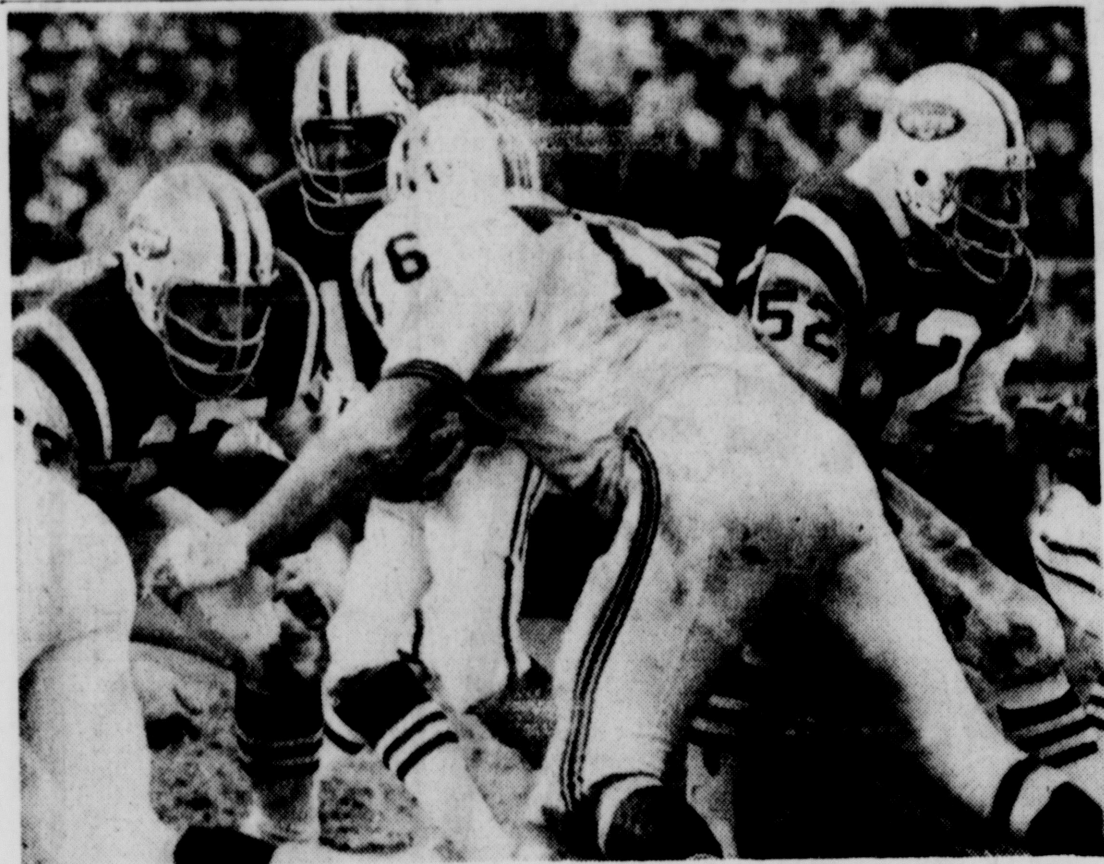

Phil Wise's fumble recovery on the New England one and Steve Tannen's deflected punt set up a pair of scores as the Jets stopped the Patriots for the sixth straight time at home. Wise recovered Carl Garrett's fumble to set up John Riggins' TD plunge and Tannen's blocked punt set the stage for Bobby Howfield's 42-yard field goal.

Terry Bradshaw, benched until late in the third quarter, threw TD passes to John Fuqua and Ron Shanklin to rally Pittsburgh past Cincinnati. Bradshaw threw a 40-yard scoring pass to Fuqua and hit Shanklin with a five-yarder after Ralph Anderson's interception.

Bo Scott and Leroy Kelly plunged for short-yardage TDs and defensive tackle Walter Johnson recovered a fumble in the end zone for another score to spark Cleveland over the Saints.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roger Staubach is finally becoming the kind of quarterback Tom Landry wants him to be.

Staubach, the one-time scrambler, became Staubach the picture pocket passer Sunday. The result was he completed 10 of 14 passes for 232 yards and three touchdowns to complement the running of Duane Thomas and Calvin Hill as the Dallas Cowboys routed the New York Giants, 42-14.

The victory was the Cowboys' sixth straight — the longest string in pro football right now — and it vaulted them into the playoffs for the sixth straight year. The Cowboys have sewed up at least a wild card playoff berth and have the inside track on the NFC Eastern Division crown.

Speedster Bob Hayes, finding the hole in the Giant zone defense, caught TD passes of 46 and 85 yards from Staubach and Calvin Hill caught a 10-yarder. Hill also scored one TD on the ground and Duane Thomas added two more in the Cowboys' easy victory.

Landry, who has tried to cut down on Staubach's tendency to run, said, "he's a good, young quarterback and he's improving all the time."

Staubach said, "I personally feel I'm on the verge of becoming a good quarterback the complete quarterback." Staubach didn't carry the ball once past the line of scrimmage and only scrambled out of the pocket once in the second period — when he was dropped for a 60-yard loss.

Dallas which routed the New York Jets, 52-10, in its previous game, seems to be reaching a peak and it couldn't come at a better time since the playoffs are two weeks away. "We got kind of complacent at the start of the year and then we started losing and it took some time for us to wake up but we finally realized we had to win," Landry said.

The Dallas coach said the combination of Hill and Thomas together in the backfield had given the club a strong running punch and that makes it easier for the passing game to go. Thomas had his 34 and 47 yards by Charlie Gogolak of the Patriots.

now become a vital cog in their offense.

Giant coach Alex Webster was impressed by the Cowboys as he said, "it's the best Dallas team I've seen. They've got quite a machine and they've got it rolling. And that Staubach is throwing the ball real well."

Throwing against the Giant defense made things easy, too. The Giants started the game with both cornerbacks, Bennie McRae and Willie Williams, injured and safety Spider Lockhart was injured on the first series of downs.

The Giants, who were 9-5 last year, are now 4-9 and Webster said, "our big problem is finding enough guys to put on the field next week." Besides Lockhart, the Giants lost running backs Bobby Duhan and Junior Coffey, wide receiver Rich Houston and guard Wayne Walton on injuries.

The Giants did manage one thing, though. They stopped the Thomas' streak of two straight opening kickoff touchdown returns. Dallas won the toss but Pete Gogolak booted a bouncing, squib kick away from Thomas and the rookie had to chase it into the end zone and then down it.

But it was the last time the Giants stopped the Cowboys all day.

The 'New Namath' Impresses Old One

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, has had his first look at durable Jim Plunkett of the New England Patriots and, if there's one part of Plunkett's anatomy Namath admires, it's his knees.

"Plunkett has a great arm and great potential," Namath pointed out after the Jets edged the Patriots 13-6 in an American Football Conference game Sunday. "I couldn't tell whether he was doing things right or wrong out there because we were giving him a good rush and good coverage downfield."

"But I wish I had his knees," Plunkett, a rookie of the year candidate, has been somewhat of a phenomenon this season — the only quarterback in the National Football League to be in on every offensive play for his team.

He displayed his durability against the Jets by leading the Patriots in rushing with 52 yards in seven carries, and surviving another 60 minutes of NFL warfare without injury. He also compiled better passing statistics than Namath, although failing to add to his touchdown total.

Plunkett completed 18 of 31 passes for 176 yards and had one intercepted. Namath hit on seven of 12 for 95 yards and had two interceptions. With one game remaining, Plunkett has 17 touchdown passes, one less than Namath in his rookie year.

That they obviously admired each other was apparent by Namath's reference to Plunkett's knees and Plunkett's reference to Namath's leadership abilities.

"Namath has some kind of magic with that team," Plunkett said. "When he is in there he is in complete control and they respond better for him than anyone else. When he says 'jump,' they say 'how high?'

Namath, however, played down his role in the Jets' victory. "I didn't do much," he said, "just handed the ball off and worked up a sweat, but it kept the ball away from Plunkett."

One of Namath's handoffs was to John Riggins, who bulled one yard with 25 seconds gone in the second half for the game's only touchdown and a 10-3 Jets' lead that proved decisive.

The other scores came on field goals — 16 and 42 yards by Bobby Howfield of the Jets and 34 and 47 yards by Charlie Gogolak of the Patriots.

Namath has some kind of magic with that team," Plunkett said. "When he is in there he is in complete control and

Nastase Is Master

PARIS (UPI) — Ilie Nastase headed back to his native Romania today with $15,000 in his pocket, the fruit of his 5-7, 7-6, 6-3 victory Sunday over America's Stan Smith in the Masters Tennis Tournament.

The tournament, which offered $50,000 in total prize money, was the last in a season that has been marked by the breakup of relations between the Amateur International (ILTF) and the World Championship Tennis (WCT).

The dark-haired Nastase won first place in the week-long round-robin competition without losing a single one of his six matches.

In the final contest Sunday, against Smith, a blonde, rangy Californian who was last year's Pepsi Masters winner, Nastase showed superior control as he time and again saved difficult situations with deft backcourt strokes on the hard surface of the indoor Courtin Stadium.

After letting Smith come from behind to win the first set 7-5, Nastase combined his solid ground strokes with accurate serving to control the rest of the match.

Smith took second prize money of $9,000 after compiling a 4-2 won-lost record.

Third prize of $7,500 went to Cliff Richey of Texas who chalked up an even 3-3 record. The last four finishers were France's Pierre Barthes, 3-3, with $6,000, Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 3-3, with $4,500, Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, 1-5, with $3,500 and America's Clark Grabner, 1-5, with $1,500.

Syracuse Tops Navy

By LINDA M. LEBSACK
Associated Press Writer

Buffalo-area basketball fans were showered with sinkers Saturday night as Canisius dumped Catholic University 126-85 and Niagara topped DePaul University 108-87 in a twin bill at Memorial Auditorium.

Other New York State games that passed the century mark included Rochester over Clarkson 112-76, St. John's over Seton Hall 103-84, and Slippery Rock, Pa. over Roberts Wesleyan 111-84.

The Syracuse Navy contest was another high scorer with the unbeaten Orangemen coming out on top, 90-80.

Cornell, playing without its six blacks and coach Jerry Lace, lost to Fairfield 86-74. A school spokesman said Lace missed the game to talk with the boycotting blacks who contend school policy limits the number of blacks on the court at one time.

Buffalo State's Ken Zak sank a field shot with one second remaining to oust Oneonta State 51-49. The game had been tied 27-up at the half.

Free throws the last two seconds by Tim Palma pushed Houghton past Eisenhower 78-76. Houghton had tied the game at 76-76 in the final 30 seconds.

Canisius set a school scoring record, topping by 18 points the record set against Boston College almost ten years ago. The Griffins are 3-1 for the season.

Niagara almost lost out to eagle-eyed DePaul, hitting 74 per cent from the floor during the first half. But DePaul's percentage fell to a still respectable 60 per cent and Niagara rolled on to its fourth season victory in five games.

On the tournament trail, Oswego State lost its own Max Ziel Classic, dropping the consolation final to Susquehanna, Pa., 84-70. Marist topped William Paterson College of Wayne, N.J., 77-62, for the title.

Fouls spelled the difference in the Susquehanna-Oswego match as the winners led most of the way in its title-clincher and its high scorer, Joe Scott with 26 points, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Unbeaten Siena picked up another victory Saturday, a 91-82 rout of Cortland State. Cortland from halftime on was never closer than the closing nine-point margin.

Albany State built a 39-33 lead, then sank 17 of the next 19 points on the way to downing Harpur 67-44. Reggie Smith, a sophomore, tallied 13 of those magic 17 points.

Army handed Hofstra its fourth season loss in five starts in a 78-64 contest at West Point. The Cadets closed out the first half with a spurt, scoring 12 points to Hofstra's two, on the way to a 3-2 record.

AT UCCC DEDICATION — Participating in dedication of UCCC's new Senate Gym Saturday (L-R) George Erbstein, College president and master of ceremonies; Peter J. Ulster Faces Tough Marist Frosh Five

STONE RIDGE Coach Mike Perry of Ulster Community College's undefeated (7-0) basketball team will be looking for some answers tonight when the Senators meet another undefeated squad—Marist College Freshmen—at 8 p.m. at the spanking new million dollar Senate Gymnasium.

1. Were the Senators over-psyched for the dedication game with Mitchell College Saturday?

2. What is just a bad game?

3. Can UCCC rebound against a big, tough, physical team like the Red Fox Frosh?

All emotional states aside, however, the Senators were anything but impressive in their stumbling win over Mitchell. Some good did result from the game that allowed former Ulster high school stars Joe Bush (Onteora) and Pat Harder (Coleman) to see action and prove their effectiveness.

Ulster's bad game, whatever the reason, was still better than Mitchell could handle, but against Marist the Senators will have to be sharper. The Red Foxes have knocked off Nyack and New Paltz easily, and defeated a tough Iona team 78-74.

"I expect to give them a ball game," said Marist Coach Jim Foster. "We're good in the backcourt and we're deep, and the new court with more room to work in should be to our advantage."

On paper Marist shapes up as the more physical team, but Foster doesn't see it that way. "I think their backcourt was weak," he said, referring to Saturday's game. "and I'm

"All we want to do now is go home," said Texas A&M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf. "You would, too, after spending an outrageous evening with UCLA."

The top-ranked Bruins gave Metcalf's crew a rousing send-off back to Texas, railroading the Aggies 117-53 at cozy Pauley Pavilion Saturday night.

"Tremendous, just tremendous," said Metcalf, praising the bullish Bruins.

UCLA Coach John Wooden was almost apologetic after the laughter: "I don't like to win games by overwhelming margins."

The Bruin blitz wasn't as shocking as some of Saturday's other results as upsets claimed three other Top Ten teams.

Ohio University surprised fourth-ranked Ohio State 79-68. Southwestern Louisiana topped No. 6 Long Beach State 90-83 in the finals of the Bayou Classic at Lafayette, La., and Indiana pulled out a nervous 90-89 double-overtime victory over seventh-ranked Kentucky.

Second-ranked Marquette had an easy time with ninth-ranked Michigan, whipping the Wolverines 81-52 in a mild surprise.

North Carolina, the country's No. 3 club, walloped Virginia Tech 93-60 and No. 8 Jacksonville trimmed Georgia Southern 106-88 in other games involving Top Ten teams. Fifth-ranked Maryland and No. 10 Penn had Saturday night off.

Wooden, who claims he likes to keep scores down by "using all my players," apparently didn't have too much luck in that respect against overwhelmed Texas A&M. Almost everyone he played had a hand in the Aggie demise.

The foremost of his Aggiekillers, however, was sophomore center Bill Walton, who scored 23 points, blocked numerous shots and used his imposing, 6-foot-11 stature to bully everyone under the basket.

"I always thought the Lord divided things equally," said Metcalf, "but He gave it all to him (Walton)."

Asked if his players might have been awed at Pauley Pavilion, a noisy chamber of horrors for visiting teams, Metcalf responded:

"I don't know about my players, but I sure as hell was," he said. "I'd like to forget about this place."

It may be hard for Metcalf to forget the nightmare right away. It could be that he'll have recurring bad dreams about Walton bolting to the backboards or forward Ken Wilkes shooting the eyes out of the basket with 22 points before sitting down.

En route to the easy triumph, the undefeated Bruins did something they've never done before—score 100 points in a game four straight times.

PS: Bob Gobin and Mario Brown led the losers with 10 points apiece.

Bruins Rude Hosts to Aggies

Tom Riccardi scored 27 points and Tom Corde had 21 to lead Ohio's triumph over heavily favored Ohio State.

"They dictated the offense to us," said Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor. "They controlled the game. Riccardi and Corde really hurt us."

PS: Bob Gobin and Mario

Al Hrdlicka hooped 16. Hrdlicka and Craig Burkhardt led all rebounders with 11 apiece.

Both undefeated co-leaders won going away for their third straight wins in the Saugerties Athletic Association Basketball League Saturday.

The Raiders stumbled in the first quarter (15-22) against The Irish but roared back for an 84-64 victory, racking up 46 points in the second half.

Allen Bus Lines had it easier against Mahogany Ridge, rolling up a 45-28 lead and breezing to an 89-67 triumph. In the other game, Foster's Coach House led all the way to dump Naccarato's Insurance, 71-64.

Mahogany Ridge (0-3) had the temerity to jump to 10-4 lead over Allen's, before Manager Frank Allen started popping points and didn't stop until he had tallied 44, just four shy of the record. Don Komosa gave him great support on the boards, snaring a game high 12 rebounds and adding 14 points. John Melnik's deadly outside shooting accounted for 18 points.

Don MacRae (16) and John Frelich (13) paced the Raiders' men's inadequate attack.

Raiders didn't catch the Irish until midway through the second quarter, moved to an apparently safe lead, saw it shrink to 6 late in the game and then surged back with a 20-point margin.

Ron Thomas led the winners with 19 points. Gary Greiner had 13, Jack Keenan 12 and Jerry Hawkins picked off 10 rebounds and added 13 points.

Jon Carnright kept the Irish men's hopes alive, winding up with 18 points and a dozen rebounds. Captain John Kelly plunked 18, also from the outside. Tom Tegeler's 12 points and 8 rebounds led the losers.

Foster's Coach House got back on the winning trail, passing Naccarato's near the end of the first half and clinging to a narrow lead thereafter.

Ron Miller's 29 points spelled the difference between the teams. Dave Kane's all-round play, including 9 rebounds and 3 assists contributed greatly to the win.

Captain Jack Naccarato led his charges with 18 points and Al Hrdlicka hooped 16. Hrdlicka and Craig Burkhardt led all rebounders with 11 apiece.

Park Parked Puck

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"When I shoot," said Brad Park, "I just want to get the puck on the net."

The New York Rangers' defenseman did more than get the puck on the net Sunday night. He got it IN the net... three times.

The "hat trick" led the Rangers to a 6-1 romp over the Pittsburgh Penguins and boosted New York's East Division lead in the National Hockey League to three points over Boston and Montreal.

The Bruins were beaten by California 4-2 and Montreal bowed to Philadelphia 4-1.

Chicago padded its West Division advantage to four points over Minnesota, downing the North Stars 5-3, and Toronto defeated Buffalo 4-2 in other NHL games.

Park's three goals—two on almost identical power-play slap shots within three minutes of the second period—were the most ever by a New York defenseman in a game. The NHL record for goals in a game by a defenseman is four. Only five players have done it, none since 1929.

"I don't like to go too much on the offense," said Park. "My job is defense. I don't want to get caught out of position. I'll have to be more careful after this."

So will the opposition.

California's victory over Boston ended the Bruins' 12-game unbeaten streak—which included 11 victories and one tie—and lifted the Golden Seals into third place in the West. Goals by ex-Bruins Wayne Carleton and Ivan Boldirev sparked California's attack. Boston's Phil Esposito notched his 23rd goal—tops in the league.

First-period goals by defenseman Ed Van Impe and rookie Bill Clement, his first in the NHL, were all Philadelphia needed to beat Montreal. The setback was only the fourth for the Canadiens this season, two by Philadelphia.

Chicago drove Minnesota goalie Gump Worsley from the nets with four goals in the first 12:21, then hung on to beat the St. Louis 1.

All men contend with the questions posed by the contrasts of sickness and health, poverty and plenty

And ask the question "why". Why loneliness in a world that would join hands? Why war when the impulse of the heart is to love? The aching chasm between the real and the ideal everywhere provokes the question . . .

WHY?

In a world looking for answers maybe God is the place to start. God is hope. God is now.

Stamp Folders Provided for Area

A concentrated five-day program to provide the residents of Kingston with attractive 1971 Commemorative Stamp Folders began today, according to Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk.

Today, the mini-albums, containing U.S. commemorative stamps issued in 1971, went on sale at the main Post Office and Uptown Station, Kingston, and at post offices in Catskill, Ellenville, Saugerties, Woodstock, Windham, Cairo, Margaretville, and Phoenicia.

"This folder is an easy way for a youngster or anyone to start a stamp collection," use for mounting stamps.

Postmaster Newkirk said. The without harming the folder nor the stamps.

Postmaster Newkirk expressed his appreciation to the local stamp clubs for their assistance in helping call attention to this folder as an excellent gift for Christmas time. He urged residents to obtain these folders to obtain them as soon as possible as the supply is limited.

Apollo 16 Flight to Carry Cosmic Ray Detector

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — When Apollo 16 makes the moon journey next March, it will be carrying a compact device for detecting cosmic rays which was designed at the General Electric Research and Development Center here in collaboration with scientists at the University of California at Berkeley and Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

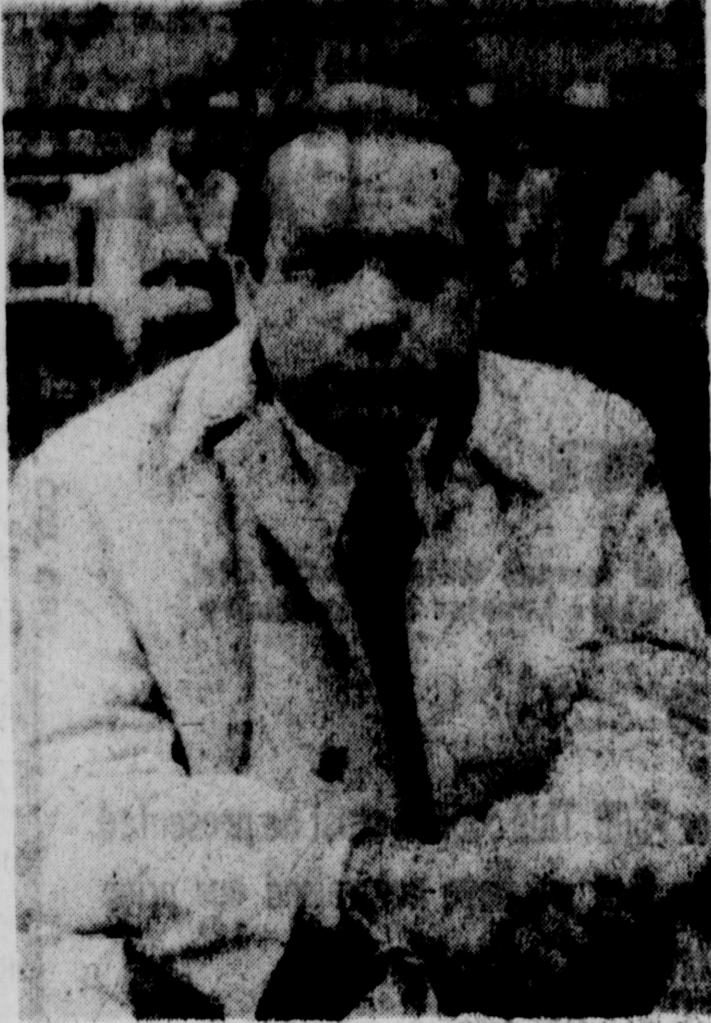

The array of detectors was unveiled Monday at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Kennedy Space Center in Cape Kennedy, Fla. The detectors use various materials including plastics, glasses and minerals to record the tracks of cosmic rays.

The Apollo 16 cosmic ray experiment may answer the most important and puzzling question about cosmic rays: How old are they?

The rays will leave their "fingerprints" on the detectors, which will be attached to the outside of the space craft. By studying them, scientists hope to gain new information about the origin of the elements in the universe.

If radioactive isotopes can be positively identified in the tracks left by the cosmic rays, it will be possible to determine their age.

The compact array of detectors, which weighs only eight pounds and draws no electric power, was engineered and fabricated under NASA sponsorship at GE's Space Sciences Laboratory in Philadelphia.

TAKES OWN LIFE — Police here say American actor Frank Wolff, 42, committed suicide Sunday in his Rome, Italy, hotel room. A native of San Francisco, Wolff was one of the best known tough guys of Italian westerns and gangster films. He had starred in five recent movies, including one entitled "Death Occurred Last Night." Wolff is pictured here in a scene from the film "Verona Trial," in which he played the role of Constanza Ciano, Italy's Fascist foreign minister and son-in-law of dictator Benito Mussolini. (UPI)

Two Injured In Fight Near Bridge

HIGHLAND. Two men were injured and a third was arrested Sunday night by State Police on two counts of third degree assault, following a fight in a car at the approach to the Mid-Hudson Bridge on the Ulster County side.

Troopers reported that Allen Williams, 29, and Johnny Jones, 42, both of Duke Road, New Paltz, were in a car with Wilmer Moore, 29, also of New Paltz, when a hassle took place. Moore allegedly cut Williams with a knife and then hit Jones on the head with a metal object described as a road reflector sign the accused man had picked up on the road nearby.

Troopers Francis J. Krasinski and Albert E. Davis later arrested Moore on assault charges filed by Williams and Jones, who were taken to Vassar Hospital for treatment of minor injuries and later released.

Moore was arraigned before Lloyd Town Justice Lewis DiStasi. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days in the Ulster County jail, police reported. The three men involved in the incident were identified as construction workers in the New Paltz area.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for unique, unusual conditions to arise. You are able to make much progress towards your aims and ambitions by taking a positive attitude for you have good judgement. Some unexpected situations develop that make it possible for you to get ahead now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy and clear up work ahead of you so you can then devote yourself to your mate and have a delightful time together. Plan for greater things in the future. Study that brochure well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Sit down and talk with associates so you can make better arrangements for the future together. A good day to come to an excellent agreement with those who oppose you. Use right words.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you enthusiastically start all of mind and go after those aims those duties ahead of you, you find they are easy to take care of and you get right profits business expert gives fine

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) suggestions you can follow. open up new vistas for you is wise. Consult with experts, bankers locally. Make new plans, also. Forget any kind of depression you may feel.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those lucky young people who while very determined still knows how to use such a quality in a modern manner for big success early in life. The judgement here is excellent. There is much ability at revitalizing outmoded businesses, ideas, and making them work efficiently, so slant the education along such lines, stressing both the old and the modern for a happy medium. Others will respect your child greatly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The aspects are excellent for making new and worthwhile plans far into the future, so get busy early at this. Listen to what advisors have to suggest. Do some philanthropic work that is important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to be with allies and begin that new plan you have in mind, whether of a business or social nature. State your objectives clearly. Save some time for the study you have been wanting to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have excellent ideas to impart to higher-ups, so do this early and gain their favor, make them a success. Some civic duty you perform can be of great help now. Show you are an ideal citizen.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Corresponding with out-towners who can give you new and interesting ideas, data or

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

COSTLY DETOUR: (Q) I was invited to a slumber party after church. I was to go straight to the party and nowhere else. But my boy friend and I decided to go eat. I knew I wasn't supposed to but I did.

While we were out eating, my mother called the house where the party was. She was very upset and said she would never trust me again. She also said my boy friend couldn't take me to church or on a date or anywhere again. She came and got me immediately.

I admitted I had disobeyed, but I told her we hadn't done anything wrong except to eat. Please tell me what I can do. I want her to trust me again. I want to see my boy friend again. — Paying High in Oklahoma.

(A) Yours is a clear case of disobedience and you should be punished. The question is how much. Not, I think, to the point of never being trusted again. Not to the point of never being permitted to see your boyfriend again.

Tell your mother you believe you know how to be trustworthy. Ask her to forgive you. Ask her to trust you. Now, or soon, I believe she will be ready to give you the second chance you need.

KISSING: (Q) You said 13 years old is too young to start kissing. Don't you think you should think this over? How old were you when you started kissing boys? — A 13-Year-Old Expert in Maine.

(A) Yes, I was kissed when I was 13 — in spin-the-bottle type games. Such public pecks are different from being an "expert" on kissing at 13.

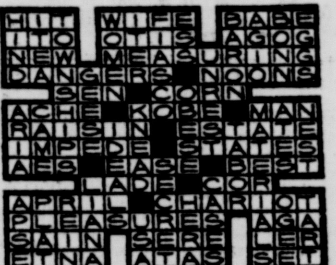

If you are not careful you may discover you are not an expert at all, but that you are in trouble. Please think that over.

Tunnel Death Toll Reaches 22

Experts to Study Fatal Blast Cause

TIME FOR MOURNING — Gloves in hand with head bowed, a mournful construction worker walks away alone after helping 24 others bring the remains of 19 men killed by a natural gas explosion in a water tunnel, to the surface from their 250 foot grave (UPI TELEPHOTO).

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — An explosion which ripped through a tunnel being built beneath Lake Huron has claimed the lives of at least 22 construction workers.

"We think we have all of them out," said Gerald Remus, a project official. "But if you saw that tangled-up mess of debris, you'd understand how somebody could still be down there."

Investigators still were uncertain today what caused Saturday's blast, which rumbled through the six-mile-long tunnel some 230 feet below the lake surface. Eight workers also were injured.

The tunnel, about six weeks from completion, is being built to carry the lake's water to Detroit and customers of the city's metropolitan water system.

The workers were finishing laying cement in the 16-foot-diameter tunnel, which leads out under the lake to an intake shaft extending upward to within 50 feet of the lake surface.

Remus, manager of Detroit Metropolitan Water Services, described as conjecture reports Sunday that the explosion was touched off by natural gas.

"We want to get the experts in there and see what might have happened," Remus said.

The evacuation of bodies and search for survivors was interrupted Saturday night and early Sunday morning by a buildup of methane gas in the tunnel.

Robert Bower, a geologist who examined the construction site a year ago, said gas build-ups occasionally had been detected.

Bower said shale through which the tunnel was cut contained isolated pockets of natural gas.

"They would hit little fissures that would have gas in them and they might blow out for maybe 10 minutes or half an hour, so they would shut down this machinery, so there would not be any fire," Bower said.

He said the amount of gas inside the fissures was small.

Remus said the tunnel had been equipped with sensory devices and would have sounded an alarm in the event of a gas buildup or water seepage.

"It was black down there," said Gary Baranowski of Port Huron, one of the first rescuers to enter the tunnel. "All the lights were out and in the light from my lantern I could see bodies all twisted and bleeding."

Investigators from four federal and state agencies began a probe Sunday.

U.S. Air Support Aids South Vietnam Drive

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnam, backed by American air support, sent 6,000 troops further west into Cambodia today in a push against North Vietnamese sanctuaries. Military sources said ranger, airborne and armored units were hunting three North Vietnamese regiments.

In South Vietnam, two GIs were killed and eight wounded Sunday in a Viet Cong attack against a U.S. outpost near the coastal city of Qui Nhon.

The new South Vietnamese drive into Cambodia was the latest phase of a three-week-old campaign against re-established Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia's rubber producing country.

The regiments that the South Vietnamese sought were believed moving west from Dam Be, 15 miles east of the rubber plantation at Chup. Dam Be was abandoned by the South Vietnamese and reported abandoned by the Viet Cong over the weekend following a week of heavy fighting followed by allied air raids against the Communists' remaining positions.

At Dam Be, the South Vietnamese reported killing 750 Communists at a cost of 75 killed and 100 wounded. They captured 35 Viet Cong along with 140 weapons and destroyed two guerrilla ammunition shops and an abandoned field hospital.

The U.S. command said the attack at Qui Nhon on South Vietnam's central coast killed one American. A second died later of wounds.

The Americans called in help from personnel of a nearby U.S. Navy base during the attack along with helicopter gunships.

He was the first politician to be slain in three years of escalating violence in the British province and the 163rd person killed in the territory this year.

The Viet Cong broke through the perimeter defenses and fighting went on inside the compound of the base for two hours before the Communists were driven off.

The base is one mile northeast of Qui Nhon, which is 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was the first ground attack against an American base in Vietnam since Aug. 25.

Final Controversy Set on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The current session of Congress faces a final controversy over a familiar issue, foreign aid, as House and Senate press toward adjournment and a month's vacation.

Congressional leaders plan to quit for the year before midweek—and Senate Republicans are urging a drive to wind up things tonight.

Four must measures await final action but only one, a temporary settlement of the long deadlock over foreign aid, is likely to force much delay.

A half-dozen senators may have something to say on that measure.

Sens. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., reportedly agreed Saturday to stage a debate against the measure. That could block action, and adjournment.

The measure they are opposing is a resolution to authorize continued foreign-aid spending until March 15, at a rate equal to about $2.6 billion a year.

Gunmen Assassinate N. Ireland Legislator

BELFAST (UPI)—Joh Barnhill, a wealthy farmer, legislator and militant Protestant member of Northern Ireland's ruling Unionist Party, was shot and killed and his home blown up late Sunday. The gunmen gave his wife two minutes to escape.

Premier Brian Faulkner, who called the incident a "foul murder," said the gunmen probably were members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) and accused the Irish Republic of harboring the murderers.

In Dublin, a spokesman for the Provisional Wing of the IRA denied the outlawed organization had any connection with Barnhill's death.

"Obviously some group is attempting to promote a sectarian confrontation and only the British occupying power can benefit from such a confrontation," said Sean MacStiofain, a leading member of the Provisional IRA.

Mrs. Barnhill said she and her husband, 65, were watching television in the living room of their three-story country estate in the village of Sirabane, one-half mile from the Irish Republic border, when the doorbell rang.

Barnhill opened the door and two shots rang out. Mrs. Barnhill said she dashed into the hallway to see a gunman box with a large bomb inside in Barnhill's body into the living room and pl xws it beside the bomb. They told Mrs. Barnhill she had two minutes to escape. As she fled toward a neighbor's house the bomb exploded.

Police said rescue workers found Barnhill's torn and bleeding body beneath the rubble seven hours after the explosion. They said the gunman used a 50-pound explosive device and pumped two bullets into the senator at point-blank range.

A neighbor, John Heyburn, said Mrs. Barnhill was in a "very dazed and shocked condition" when she reached his house.

Barnhill was a long-standing Unionist member of the Northern Ireland Parliament, a director of a large seed and potato firm and a leading member of the Orange Order, a predominantly Protestant organization with fierce loyalty to Britain.

He was the first politician to be slain in three years of escalating violence in the British province and the 163rd person killed in the territory this year.

Editor Gets Dunning Note From Paperboy

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — William H. Evans found a note attached to the door of his home recently. It said:

"Mr. Evans. As of Saturday you get your last paper! You now owe me 6 weeks and until I get paid you will get no more papers."

"Sincerely, your paperboy, R. Martin."

Evans, a football fan who is seldom home on weekends when the paperboy collects, pondered the note with amusement and then left enough money for eight weeks of service.

Evans is editor of the Gloversville Leader-Herald, which employs the industrious paperboy.

The service is scheduled for 1 p.m.
